VOL. CVIII. NEW YORK, SEPTEMBER 26, 1925 No. 13

FALL ANNOUNCEMENTS 1925

A COMPLETE INDEX
of the new books (September to December)
entered by author, title and series

The publishers' advertisements with descriptive notes are alphabetically arranged for easy reference

Bookfinding for Bookbuyers

The quarterly indexes of forthcoming books enable booksellers to quickly fill orders

When a customer asks for an unfamiliar title, it is most often a current publication which is just receiving advance notice. The customer knows the author and title, (oftentimes only the title), and rarely the name of the publisher or the price.

The quarterly indexes supplied by The Publishers' Weekly are the means of locating the publisher, quoting the price and securing the order. Every dealer in books should keep this series on the reference desk.

Look first in the current index, for the author's name, if known. The author entry is in bold face type and is more complete in details than the title entry.

If the author's name is not known or, perhaps, received incorrectly, try the title index. Titles are listed under the first or principal word.

If it is not a book of the current season the previous issues of the Announcement Indexes will locate it.

These indexes includes the books of all publishers from whom data can be had after a systematic canvass.

The Fall Index, repeats from the Mid-Year Index the important titles of July and August, and includes all publications for September, October, November and December.

Valuable descriptive matter on featured titles will be found in the publishers' advertising pages which has been arranged alphabetically by publisher for convenient reference use. These descriptive notes are valuable selling talk.

The Publishers' Weekly, Sept. 26, 1925. Vol. CVIII. No. 13. Entered as second-class matter June 1, 1879, at the post office at New York, N. Y., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Subscription, Zones 1-5, $5; Zones 6-8, $5.50; Foreign, $6. R. R. Bowker Co., 62 W. 45th St., New York.

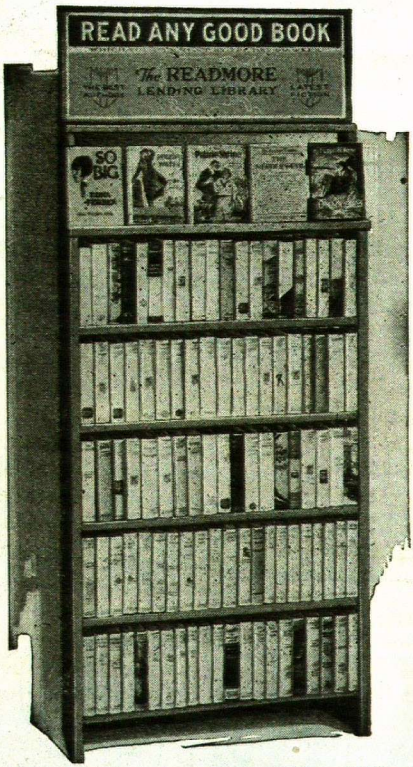
Read a Few Actual Experiences of Dealers Who Have Installed This Big Money Maker



Readmore Lending Library Brings in Over $50 the First Month

For E. R. ALLABAND,
2035 Rhode Island Avenue, Washington, D. C.

I think that a good number of the newsdealers will be interested in knowing just how the Readmore Lending Library has taken with my customers.

I put the rack on the floor of my store on late Saturday afternoon, March 28th, with its complete equipment which included 100 books, and without any advertising of any kind, I put out thirty-five books by closing time Sunday evening.

Since that time I have had to purchase about thirty-five more books to keep my rack looking at least two-thirds full. April 11th, I had seventy books on rental.

There is one thing that certainly stands out in the Readmore Lending Library as compared with the old commission library, and that is that the borrowers do not keep the books out but a day or so, and thereby giving you a bigger and, of course, a more profitable turnover.

At the rate the books are going now, it will only be a short time when I will have to have at least 200 books to keep a good number of them in the rack, as an empty rack is not inviting to a customer. My News Company gave many kind suggestions pertaining to the installing and successful operation of the Readmore Lending Library.

At the time I am writing this, May 5th, my rentals up to date have amounted to $46.94, with 65 books out, making a total of at least $53.44 business since opening.

Charles A. Scott, Sheldon, Ia., Druggist, Says

The Readmore Lending Library is going fine. I think we have enough books for the present. We have regular customers who keep on taking books. We send out as many 75c. books as $2.00 ones. We charge 3c. a day straight, with a minimum charge of 15c We have had books out two to twenty days, some finally buying the book. Yours very truly,

CHARLES A. SCOTT.

Nine Steady Customers by Nine O'Clock

The Rippel Art Shop, at 356 Market Street, Sunbury, Pa., was one of the very first to install the complete Readmore Lending Library outfit, right after it appeared in the November, 1924, issue of THE AMERICAN NEWS TRADE JOURNAL. The following is his experience as he wrote it:

"We received the Readmore Lending Library together with the first shipment of books late on a Saturday afternoon," says Mr. Rippel, "and it wasn't until 6:30 that same afternoon that we were able to unpack them and place the rack at the front of our store. By nine o'clock that evening we had nine customers who took books home with them. We are certainly delighted with the prospects of this library and have no doubt that in a short time it is going to be one of the best sources of income for our store. I cannot see why anyone would hesitate in placing this money maker in his store."

From the "Saturday Review of Books"

"The Bookman's Glossary," by John A. Holden, is a hand-book that every printer, librarian and collector, who desires to be well informed or who needs this information, should own and keep easily accessible. It is an octavo, containing 127 pages, well printed and substantially bound and is intended for those interested in any branch of book production, distribution, collecting, or selling. It is a compendium of information, a glossary of bookish terms used in the several industries allied with book publishing; paper making, printing, binding, illustrating, and cataloging, much of which would be difficult to find elsewhere, and it brings a great deal of material into compact space that has heretofore been widely scattered through various works of reference. Mr. Holden's definitions are concise, clear, and comprehensive, and one will be surprised to see how thoroughly his book covers its field. A well-known cataloger of this city in a letter says: "I keep the useful volume within hand's reach and find frequent use for it. I have read it from beginning to end and find it admirably comprehensive and well done. You should tell the young collectors and catalogers about it for it will be invaluable to them." These are the words of a well informed bookman. In the course of a year scores of letters are sent to this department containing questions that this book is planned to answer. To this class of readers we would say by all means add "The Bookman's Glossary" to your shelf of books about books, for it will help you to a clearer and more accurate knowledge of bookish words and terms that will give you great satisfaction to understand. Mr. Holden has given us a reference that will be widely useful and many will be grateful to him for making it.

THE TRAIL BLAZERS

PIONEERS OF THE NORTHWEST

By LAWTON B. EVANS

Illustrated by Oliver Kemp

12 to 16 Years

In all American History there is no more romantic record of achievement, patriotism and heroism than the story of George Rogers Clark and his sturdy band of pioneers, and their conquest of the Northwest Territory by which five great states and part of another were added to our common union.

In "The Trail Blazers" Mr. Evans has brought to this historical episode the idealism and thrilling interest which only the master story teller can convey.

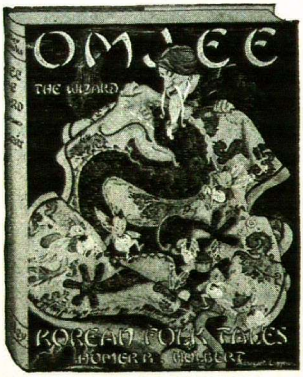
THE SEASON'S FINEST BOOKS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

OMJEE, THE WIZARD



KOREAN FOLK TALES
By HOMER B. HULBERT
6 to 12 Years
Illustrated by Hildegard Lupprian

KOREA—land of mystery and superstition where facts of life are stranger than fiction of the white man, and imagination finds truth in occult phantasies—presents a background for fanciful tales, unrivaled by any other section of the world.

It is from the folk stories of such a country retold by its people for many generations, that Mr. Hulbert has gathered the material for his book of Omjee the Wizard, and this he has done by personal contact with Korean peasants, having lived among them for several years.

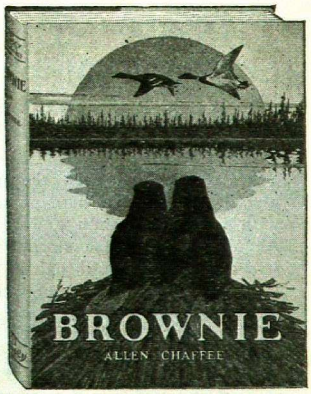
In "Omjee" are incorporated the best and most inspirational of all Korean folk tales and legends, told for boys and girls in a language which they can understand. The illustrations and marginal decorations in color on every page convey an artistic and pleasing visualization of the fantastic characters of the stories.

"Omjee the Wizard" is a beautiful story book for young readers, and a valuable addition to racial literature. Size 7¼ x 9⅝.

PRICE, $1.50

BROWNIE

THE ENGINEER OF BEAVER BROOK
By ALLEN CHAFFEE
8 to 12 Years
Illustrated by Paul Bramson



BROWNIE is the Utah beaver, whose habits his present biographer has studied first hand. He is the engineer of forest and waterway, changing, through his marvelous industry and genius, the topography of the country he inhabits as our own roads and cities are undergoing transformation for the needs of a changing civilization.

This thought gives Brownie's story an important place in child literature, but the book has an even closer touch, through its theme of constructive energy, with the instincts of the child.

The book is full of nature facts told in the story form all children love. The illustrations of Mr. Bramson, who has no equal in the interpretation of our animal life, are superb. Size 7¼ x 9⅝.

THE RED CORD
By Thomas Grant Springer

Here is an Oriental "Main Street," or better still the public square of a Chinese village, and So Wo Loie, with her tea rose cheeks, the forerunner of the modern feminist in her revolt against tradition and possession. Although bought and sold, she manages to find love and self expression. $2.00

THE GOAT WITHOUT HORNS
By Beale Davis

A beautiful white girl is branded in infancy by a native nurse with a secret mark of the Voodoo worshippers of Haiti. She later learns that this mark is the sign that she has been chosen to perform the human sacrifice, named THE GOAT WITHOUT HORNS. Her efforts to escape this fate and to leave Haiti with her American lover is a story of compelling power. $2.00

THE SWINGING CARAVAN
By Achmed Abdullah

Author of "Shackled," etc.

"No writer, not even the mighty Kipling himself can paint a word picture of the East with half the warmth and color of Achmed Abdullah." In these stories, the characters live and breathe as though of our world, yet they move in a setting of Oriental splendor and mysticism. $2.00

THE PHILOSOPHY of DISENCHANTMENT
By Edgar Saltus

A book largely devoted to a discussion of the philosophy of Schopenhauer and Von Hartmann, with a final brilliant essay on "Is Life An Affliction?" $2.00

ECLIPSE
By S. P. B. Mais

The story of a likeable young Englishman who was totally eclipsed by a brilliant wife who was a talented actress. How he was helped out into the light by a beautiful mannequin is delightfully told. Charming people move about in the pages from which word pictures of quaint and lovely bits of England stand out like Zorn etchings. $2.00

VAINGLORY
By Ronald Firbank

Author of "Prancing Nigger"

Mr. Firbank has rewritten this early novel that he now designates as "the smartest of all my work." The scenes are laid in London drawing rooms and English country houses, with such characters— $2.00

COUSINS
By Bellamy Partridge

Author of "Sube Cane," etc.

This is a deliciously funny book, mostly about boys but with some sly digs at their elders. Lovers of "Sube" and "Huck Finn" and "Penrod" are sure to fall hard for Jimmie and Bubbles. The young rascals are as lovable as they are laughable. $2.00

MARY MAGDALEN
By Edgar Saltus

Author of "Imperial Purple," etc.

The book opens with a remarkable description of Herod's court and Rome in Judea, and later tells of Judas' love for Mary and his jealousy of Jesus. But it is Mary's conversion rather than her sins that Saltus portrays with imaginative insight. $2.00

(Published December 1)

When "Big Jim" Conover sustained an injury to his right hand, he was no longer a formidable fighting man. Following quickly on his injury, came a summons back to the Western mountain country where he had spent his youth. A fine virile story of the romantic West. $2.00 net

Economic Efficiency In Bookselling

An English publisher of note denies that too many books are published—he says that not enough books are bought.

The reason for that may be that not enough books are sold. People don't die of mental starvation if they are not supplied with books—not in any painful way, at least. But they will buy books "if properly approached."

The effective approach in Chicago—where more than a million potential book buyers abide—is through The Wednesday Book Pages of The Chicago Daily News. The Chicago book reading and buying public is accustomed to look to these pages for book news and reviews—and book-buying information.

Many publishers capitalize this habit*—more of them will do so as they realize how it pays.

THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS

First in Books

*In the first 8 months of 1925 The Daily News printed 67,056 agate lines of book advertising 15,772 more lines than its nearest competitor in this field.

Selected Publications

IN a city called Maiden's Delight lived a king named Immortal-Power. He had three sons who were supreme blockheads, so he summoned a wise Brahman and said, "Holy Sir, as a favor to me you must make these princes incomparable masters of the art of intelligent living."

So this Brahman, over two thousand years ago, somewhere in the Vale of Kashmir, told the boys a series of tales that are among the great stories of all time.

The Panchatantra

which means "five books" in Sanskrit, has now for the first time been completely translated into English, by Arthur W. Ryder, in a desire to retell these stories just as they were first told in India. Here is a collection that rivals the "Arabian Nights" of Haroun al Raschid. $4

Gold's Gloom

is a smaller volume than The Panchatantra in which a number of representative tales have been gathered together in a particularly attractive binding. It is a handsome collection of some of the most captivating stories in the world. $2

APOSTLES' CREED; A Romance in Religion

A. T. ABERNETHY, D.D.

Ornamental boards with jacket. 12mo. $.75

The purpose of this book is to bring the spirit of the Creed into the minds and hearts of the people and break away from the cold formalism with which the Creed is said each Sunday.

THE BISHOP OF COTTONTOWN

JOHN TROTWOOD MOORE

12mo. $1.00

Besides being an interesting and enthralling story of love and adventure this book presents a vivid picture of the South just after the Civil War. The first days of the cotton factory are accurately described, as well as the severe struggles the southern planters had to undergo to get back on their feet after the ravages of War.

EMINENT MEN I HAVE MET ALONG THE SUNNY ROAD

SAM R. STEEL

12mo. $1.00

A series of extremely pointed personal sketches of a few great men with whom Dr. Steel has enjoyed personal contact. His book is composed of excerpts from the lives of such men as D. L. Moody, Bledsoe, Longstreet, Henry Ward Beecher and others.

THE GIFT OF THE GRASS

JOHN TROTWOOD MOORE

12mo. $.90

The story of Hal, a famous race-horse, as told by himself in the days when pedigreed horses and beautiful women were the toast of the countryside.

A GOSPEL FOR THE NEW AGE

C. H. BUCHANAN

12mo. $1.50

In religion, as in almost every other line of thought, the world seems to have slipped from its old-established moorings and to have cast adrift. This book studied and read conscientiously will tend to counteract this tendency and call men back to the simple, vital trust in Jesus and religion.

I SAT AT THE GATE BEAUTIFUL

CARL HOLLIDAY

Ornamental boards with color inlay. $.75

An imaginative story of Jacob of Nazareth who was thrown to the lions in the Roman Arena A. D. 91. It is beautifully written and breathes an atmosphere of reverence and deep religious feeling.

JACK BALLINGTON, FORESTER

JOHN TROTWOOD MOORE

12mo. $.90

Jack Ballington did not want to fight—but when the last call came for volunteers he enlisted and crowned himself with glory and honor as the bravest of the brave. The scenes in this story are intensely dramatic and the reader's sympathy and interest are enlisted from start to finish.

OLE MISTIS, AND OTHER STORIES AND SONGS OF THE SOUTH

JOHN TROTWOOD MOORE

12mo. $.90

Ole Mistis is the story of a famous race horse who saved the honor and fortune of her owner by winning the race just in time. The other stories and poems descriptive of Middly Tennessee and give an invaluable insight into the lives and homes of the traditional South.

PUTTING IT ACROSS

WILLIAM HERMAN LEACH, Ph.B.

12mo. $1.25

Dr. Leach shows why some organizations succeed and some do not, why some men are born leaders and others are never more than followers. How to make voluntary organizations succeed is the theme and his wide experience in this work makes his book the product of the firing line and not of the cloister.

THE REVIVAL

W. A. TYSON

12mo. $1.50

It is more difficult to secure preachers who have the Baptism of the Evangelist than it is to fill the places of official honor and responsibility to our communions. This volume shows how to remove this difficulty and to prepare those who shall see in it their opportunity.

THE SERMON ON THE MOUNT

ISAAC C. JENKINS

$.75

A plain and scholarly exposition of the greatest recorded sermon. Mr. Jenkins illuminates the text with telling illustrations.

A SHORT HISTORY OF THE METHODISTS IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

JESSIE LEE

$3.00

This book is probably the most accurate account of the rise of Methodism in America that has ever been written. It covers the period from the birth of John Wesley until 1810.

THE SMALL SUNDAY SCHOOL, ITS PLAN AND WORK

L. F. SENSABAUGH

12mo. Paper covered boards with jacket. $.60

This text has been prepared with the very definite purpose of helping that large number of officers and teachers who are laboring under handicaps, physical and otherwise, that are peculiar to the small church.

A SUMMER HYMNAL

JOHN TROTWOOD MOORE

12mo. $.90

As in all of John Trotwood Moore's books, the scene of this story is laid in the middle Basin of Sunny Tennessee. It is idyllic in conception and touches the heart with its pathos and human understanding.

JESUS THE PIONEER, AND OTHER SERMONS

UMPHREY LEE
12mo. $1.50

Presentations of present day problems that bring out the fact that the Bible contains the solution for them all. It is not a book whose principles were given for a bygone age but is as up-to-date as the morning newspaper and as real as the problems which confront us.

THE MASTER'S MESSAGE TO MODERN YOUTH

R. BAYARD PROCTOR
Ornamental Paper. 12mo. $.30

In simple, unaffected language, the author strives to give the reader an appreciation of true values. While brief, it furnishes excellent material for individual as well as class study. Some of the subjects treated are: Spiritual Freedom; the Secret of Greatness; the Reward of Faithfulness.

THE MEANING OF GOD

HARRIS FRANKLIN RALL, Ph.D.
12mo. $1.50

The author contends that religion is not a species of bondage and God is not a tyrant, but offers a freedom which the soul of man cannot realize alone.

THE MISSIONARY EVANGEL

BISHOP E. D. MOUZON
12mo. $1.50

This book comprises the Fondren Lectures for 1925 delivered by Bishop Mouzon before the students of the Southern Methodist University in April. Press reports and personal comments proclaim this series of lectures as of exceptional interest, profound thought, eloquently delivered and containing inspiration and instruction which should be given to all the Christian world.

THE TRAIL DRIVERS OF TEXAS

GEORGE W. SAUNDERS
President of Old Trail Drivers Association. $5.00

One of the greatest books available on the history of the early cattle industry in the Mid-West. True narratives related by real cowpunchers and men who fathered the Cattle Industry.

UNCLE WASH, HIS STORIES

JOHN TROTWOOD MOORE
$.90

A group of typical old-time negro stories as told by a former slave. These tales give the reader an excellent picture of the lives and customs of the negroes of the Old South.

WHAT JESUS SAID ABOUT HEAVEN

J. T. WHITLEY
$.75

In this book the author has gathered together all the passages in the four gospels in which Jesus spoke about Heaven, and has classified them under appropriate headings, giving a sample and straightforward interpretation.

WINTER IS COMING AND OTHER STORIES

MARY ALICE JONES
$.65

This book was prepared especially for use in week-day sessions of Church schools. It consists of a compilation of the best stories that have appeared in the Chuurch and Sunday School papers.

THE WISDOM OF SUFI THE SCRIBE

DR. W. H. NELSON
$.30

Dr. Nelson combines Oriental sagacity and Yankee shrewdness in the fifty brief fables entitled "Wisdom of Sufi the Scribe." The wit and wisdom in these little tales serve to make a very readable little book.

New and forthcoming publications of the Columbia University Press include a number of the best books in their respective fields. Written in scientific spirit and combining popular style and treatment, they are good reading for the average layman.

NOTABLE NEW BOOKS

THE HISTORICAL FOUNDATIONS OF THE LAW RELATING TO TRADE-MARKS.

[By FRANK I. SCHECHTER, J. D. pp. xviii +211. Illustrations, notes, bibliography and index. $6.00.] It covers the field of trade-mark law from its origin in the gild records of the Middle Ages to the late advance opinions of British and American courts. Send for a circular.

"It is technical enough to be of practical use to the members of the Bar, and at the same time its language is sufficiently free from mystifying legal terms to make it absorbing and understandable reading for the business man."—Printers' Ink.

"The work is highly recommended both for its social aspect as a study in gild life and discipline and from its ethical aspect as a study in the history of trade morality."—Patent and Trade Mark Review.

THE INVENTION OF PRINTING IN CHINA AND ITS SPREAD WESTWARD.

[By THOMAS F. CARTER, late Assistant Professor of Chinese in Columbia University. pp. xviii + 282, 37 plates, map, chart, notes, bibliography and index. $7.50.]

"It is a strange fact that no detailed study of early printing in China and its relation to the invention of printing in Europe has until now been made. This is an initial research in this field, based, in the main, on Chinese dynastic histories and other records in which early printing is described. It includes also an extended study of recent archaeological discoveries in European museums."—From the prospectus.

THOMAS CHANDLER HALIBURTON. "Sam Slick."

[By V. L. O. CHITTICK. pp. ix + 681. Frontispiece. $4.00.] The authoritative biography of Canada's most famous man of letters with extracts from his works. Circular is now ready.

"This study is exhaustive and final. No one can henceforth venture to write or speak on Haliburton without referring to it."—Montreal Standard.

THE LITERATURE OF THE MIDDLE WESTERN FRONTIER

[By RALPH L. RUSK, Associate Professor of English in Columbia University. Two volumes. pp. xiii + 457; vi + 419. $7.50.] Frontier civilization in the great Middle West from 1700 to 1840 is mirrored in its rich but today little known literature. The author gives a digest of important fields of this literature, supported by complete bibliographies.

"Every aspect of Middle Western literature is recorded and discussed by Professor Rusk."—The Boston Transcript.

"His books must become one of the chief sources for all later investigators into the creative life of this particular region."—Christian Science Monitor.

ROBINSON CRUSOE AND ITS PRINTING. 1719-1731.

[By HENRY CLINTON HUTCHINS. pp. xv + 201. Illustrated. $10.00.] Of technical value to bibliographers, to rare book lovers and to students of conditions of printing and bookselling in early eighteenth century England. The book itself represents perfection in modern book making art, and is limited to 300 numbered copies.

CRACKERBOX PHILOSOPHERS IN AMERICAN HUMOR AND SATIRE.

[By JENNETTE TANDY. pp. vii + 181. $2.50] The Down East Yankee philosopher and the Southern rustic humorist are particularly considered.

"A comprenhensive compilization and study of American humor from Yankee Doodle to Abe Martin. The field of humor and satire, old and new, North and South, is covered with a meticulous comb."—New York Sun.

"No student of American affairs can neglect it in any sincere effort to arrive at a true understanding of the heart of the American people."—The Indianapolis News.

FIVE STAGES OF GREEK RELIGION.

[By GILBERT MURRAY, Regius Professor of Greek in the University of Oxford. pp. vii + 267. $3.50.] A new and enlarged edition of the author's "Four Stages of Greek Religion."

THE ANCIENT HIGHWAY

All that an old road can suggest—a road blazed by explorers, worn by adventurers, homeseekers, strolling lovers, a road beaten by pursued and pursuers—is dramatized in this novel. "The Ancient Highway" leads through the Quebec forestlands and takes you with the hero, Clifton Brant, down the world-old highway of Romance. Price, $2.00

James Oliver CURWOOD

OLD YOUTH

A novel whose theme is the romance of those who have kissed youth good-by. Sympathy focuses upon the widowed Eve Greensleeve, who is fired to daring when she meets after eighteen years her girlhood lover. She knows heartache and suspense before she discovers that "it isn't youth but love which makes the world younger." Price, $2.00

Coningsby DAWSON

COUSIN JANE

The story of "Tedmon's Folly," a great old California home founded on a mining fortune now dissipated by stock gambling. To it little Jane comes from her select school to drudge for her curious cousins. How Jane at last escapes from "Tedmon's Folly" makes a novel of such humorous and pathetic charm as only the author of "Merton of the Movies" can write. Price, $2.00

Harry Leon WILSON

THE PARIS THAT'S NOT IN THE GUIDE BOOKS

A picture of the gay life of Americans in Paris, complete enough to make the scenes vivid to those who have never seen the city. The book is also a super-guide for the tourist who wants to see not the Paris of the Cathedrals but the Paris of the cabarets. Price, $2.00

Basil WOON

THE UNDERSTANDING HEART

A bracing story of early mining days in the West; as chief character it has a preacher who tries to interpret the gospel in terms of humanity and who like his Master is reviled and persecuted. A wonderful love story and the record of a deathless friendship, are both to be found in "The Understanding Heart." Price, $2.00

—Because the Authors' Fame sells them for you

CONINGSBY DAWSON turns a brilliant epigram as easily as you or I turn a page.

(Right) — Here's news! HARRY LEON WILSON has specialized on a girl character — a girl who thinks the bell-boy's name is Front!

(Below)—JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD makes the Quebec forests so enticing that you want to reach for a time-table.

(Below) — BASIL WOON (seen here with Mae Murray in the Bois) knows exactly what makes Paris tick—and tickle tourists.

To borrow from Buick —when better Western stories are written, PETER B. KYNE will write them.

ALL QUESTIONS ANSWERED

The most valuable reputation that a bookstore can acquire is the reputation for prompt and intelligent service in supplying the new books. No store can carry every new book, and no salesman on the floor can keep in his memory every title that he has seen announced. The Fall Announcement Index should be close at hand in every department of a bookstore as it is the quick key to 3300 new books with full description in the publisher's advertising.

TEN BOOKS THAT

A DIPLOMAT LOOKS AT EUROPE

By Richard Washburn Child

Octavo, Fully Illustrated, $4.00

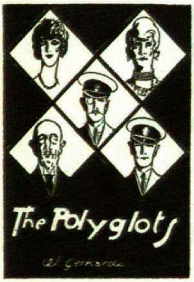
The former Ambassador to Italy, nationally known as a writer, internationally known as a diplomat, here sets down his memoirs—the first out-spoken record of American diplomacy since the late Walter Hines Page laid down his pen—perhaps more fascinating because written by a younger man.

Vivid personalities throng these pages which record exciting days and thrilling interviews and encounters with the world moulders of the time. A most important addition to diplomatic memoirs.

THE POLYGLOTS

By William Gerhardi

Author of "Futility," "Anton Chehov," etc. $2.50



Four large printings through the summer months is the record of this astonishing novel. As to its quality we will let the literary reviewers speak:

"Unforgettable pictures . . . one of the big books of the year. Its satire is well nigh perfect . . . how unerringly each shaft is aimed."—From HENRY LONGAN STUART'S Full Page Review in The New York Times.

"This mad book—biting, gay and wanton."—From a second review in N. Y. Times.

"As captivating, as delightfully arresting as 'The Constant Nymph'."—The Forum.

"A magnificent and devastating book."—DOROTHEA LAWRANCE MANN in the Boston Transcript.

"It is quite frank, yet this flagrant amour has a dewy freshness about it. A clergyman could read it without shame."—HARRISON SMITH in the N. Y. Herald-Tribune.

"It is a scream—full of mad humors."—The Independent.

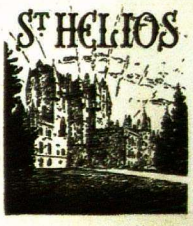
ST. HELIOS

By Anna Robeson Burr

Second large printing one week after publication. $2.00



What would have become of Byron's Allegra if she had lived to grow up? The plot and story of St. Helios are the outcome of many discussions and logical surmises on this question—and this is a Byron year.

The author is, of course, famous for her other novels, published anonymously, for which there is an ever increasing demand. They are:

The Great House in the Park
Published 1924—3d Large Printing

The House on Smith Square
Published 1923—4th Large Printing

The House on Charles Street
Published 1922—5th Large Printing

DUFFIELD AND COMPANY

THE PUBLIC WANT

HARE AND TORTOISE

By Pierre Coalfleet

$2.00

Against a superb background of snow-capped mountains, forests and canyons, the characters carve their destinies, and prove that a novel can have the vitality of a western setting, and yet be written with literary finesse. This novel was published serially in The Forum as a splendid and worthy successor to "The Little French Girl" and "Soundings."

THE GREY GANDER

By John Jones Sharon $2.00

A thrilling story of old Mississippi steamboat days, in the gay and festive period before the Civil War; of a very beautiful St. Louis belle and her suitors, which included the notorious thief and outlaw who under the name of "The Grey Gander" terrorized the territory.

DULCARNON

By Henry Milner Rideout $1.50

A wonderful tale of a hunt for the treasurer of the "Two Horned Alexander," that leads through Indian jails, swamps and ruined palaces, by the author of "Man Eater," "Barbry," "The Far Cry," etc.

THE JUNGLE MAN AND HIS ANIMALS

By Carveth Wells. Pictured by Tony Sarg

Quarto, $3.00

A ravishing combination for Children. Amazing, true animal stories by the author of "Six Years in the Malay Jungle," lavishly illustrated throughout by the irresistable Tony Sarg. A big square book of wonder and delight.

A CHILD'S BOOK OF COUNTRY STORIES

Compiled by Ada and Eleanor Skinner. Illus. by Jessie Wilcox Smith

Large 8vo, $2.50

Uniform with our other Skinner collections and illustrated, as usual, with the lovely paintings of Jessie Willcox Smith.

THE LITTLE GIRL WHO CURTSIED

By Margaret and Mary Baker Octavo, $2.00

Another delicious fairy tale, illustrated throughout in silhouette, by the authors of "The Black Cats and the Tinker's Wife." "The Dog, the Brownie and the Bramble Patch," and "Pedlar's Ware."

LITTLE FAIRY SLEEPY EYES

Boards, $2.00

A charming little Hans Andersen story, illustrated, printed and bound in Paris. Unique features which must be seen to be appreciated.

FOURTEEN SONGS from WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG
Music by H. Fraser-Simson
Decorations by E. H. Shepard
$3.00

Special Christmas Edition of WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG

DURING the summer months, from April 1st to September 1st, the average sale of "When We Were Very Young" has run a little over 2800 copies per week. This gives some idea of what the book is doing and what its possibilities are. Beginning September 1st it will carry the most elaborate advertising campaign of any book we have ever published. We have prepared a broadside from the copy for these ads which are to appear in the leading newspapers and periodicals throughout the country and would be glad to send you a copy.

The special Christmas Edition is to be ready on October 15th and we think it is quite irresistible. It is octavo, on handsome paper, with colored paper boards, wrapped in decorated glazed paper. It comes in a special Christmas box with a delightful Christmas card enclosed. And, best of all, it has a photogravure frontispiece of Christopher Robin himself.

The price of the Special Edition is $3.00

As Emmeline herself would say, "When We Were Very Young" will make a "purfickly" wonderful present for anybody, any age.

The price of the Regular Edition is $2.00

FOR READERS:

Cash Prizes $250.00

Full details with each copy

IT CONTAINS an abundant collection of historical, mathematical, geographical problems, word play, sequences, enigmas, versifications, transpositions, etc.

This book owes its existence to the suggestion of Dr. John Grier Hibben, President of the Princeton University:

"Mental Exertion is as Necessary
As Physical Exercise"

It is further endorsed by eminent educational authorities, as a book rich in interest, instructive and amusing, designed to encourage quickness of thought, wit, mental ingenuity and accuracy of observation.

"QUIZ" has every element that a juvenile book should possess to prove profitable to a book-seller. The title and the handsome, bright jacket are certain to attract attention; the contents are witty, generously entertaining and instructive. It will please the most fastidious; it is the best book money can buy, and will "repeat," as those who see it or read it will recommend it to others.

You may have for the asking, posters full of "pep," post-cards, circulars, etc.

THE NIB OF THE MATTER

as to any new book is in the short paragraph which the publisher writes about his new books to accompany his fall announcements. Every way to clear description and suggestive analysis is invoked to make those few words carry to the handler of books, bookseller, librarian, or critic, a clear idea of the real nature of the book and its reason for being. Why was the book written, for what purpose, why does the publisher believe there is a need for it? That the advertisement tries to express in a few words.

TO THE TRADE:

It is with particular pleasure that we present to the Trade what we believe to be the most important and well-rounded list of books that we have ever issued in one season: a belief that is strikingly confirmed by the orders so far received and by the comments of the booksellers to whom it has been shown.

The Lauriat Company's List of Recent and Forthcoming Publications and Importations

A Handsome New Issue of Roger Ingpen's Illustrated Edition of

BOSWELL'S LIFE OF JOHNSON

Newly edited, with notes, and a new introduction (as well as a reprint of original introduction) by ROGER INGPEN. With more than five hundred illustrations, full-page and in the text, including thirteen full-page plates in photogravure. Three vols. 4to, cloth, gilt, gilt tops (boxed) $15.00 net

THE SAME. Elegantly bound by Bayntun, of Bath, England, in half morocco, extra, gilt tops $35.00 net

The original issue of Ingpen's beautifully illustrated edition was printed from type, so that in preparing this new issue, which was done under Mr. Ingpen's supervision, it became necessary to re-set the text entirely, so that the book is again printed from new type. The original illustrations have been used, except that the full page photogravures have been printed from new plates, obtained direct from the original portraits and paintings, as was done in the first issue.

Mr. Ingpen has contributed a very delightful new introduction, in which he traces the growth of interest in Johnson and his circle which has taken place since the original publication of his edition, nearly twenty years ago.

FAIR WINDS AND FOUL

A Narrative of Daily Life Aboard an American Clipper Ship. By FREDERICK PERRY, who made the voyages. Illustrated with six plates, printed separately and tipped on to dark grey mounts. 8vo. Cloth, gilt top $3.50 net

In 1873, the Author was appointed as a Cadet Midshipman in the service of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company. At the end of a three-year course he entered the service of the California Clipper Ships. This book relates the stories of several voyages that he made while working his way up from third mate to first mate at the height of the history of these famous ships. He writes from personal experience and his narrative, always graphic, at times almost thrilling, is bound to hold the reader's attention to the end.

SHANGHAIED OUT OF FRISCO IN THE NINETIES

By HIRAM BAILEY, F. R. G. S. A narrative of a voyage across San Francisco Bay to Mexico, Chile, Australia and Fiji. Illustrated with a frontispiece by the eminent Marine Artist, J. Spurling, six line drawings, a deck plan and a chart. Small 8vo. Cloth, gilt top $2.50 net

Mr. Bailey was snatched suddenly away from all friends, and found himself, when he awoke, upon a strange American ship, among strange men, upon a strange sea, out of sight of land, with a twenty-thousand mile voyage in front!

His nautical growth among real deep-water sailormen and a "hard-case" mate is most vividly, and on occasion, most humorously, depicted. The narrative bristles with exciting, but no less true, incidents of the common hardships, desperate dangers, laughable whimsicalities, and sea superstitions in a long sailing ship voyage—now, alas! becoming more and more a rarity.

THE CROOKED AND NARROW STREETS OF THE TOWN OF BOSTON, 1630-1822

By ANNIE HAVEN THWING. New edition, revised and corrected, with additional notes. Illustrated with twenty-four full-page plates in photogravure and seven folding maps. Text handsomely printed in bold type on heavy cream wove paper, with generous margins. Royal 8vo. Tastefully bound in antique style, cloth back, board sides, uncut. (Boxed) $3.00 net

In this revised edition a number of typographical and other errors that were discovered to have crept into the original issue have been corrected and the author has contributed a new introduction and new notes.

THE YACHT AMERICA

By WINFIELD M. THOMPSON, WILLIAM P. STEPHENS and WILLIAM U. SWAN. Together with a foreword by JOHN R. SPEARS. Elaborately illustrated with full-page portraits and views, chiefly from scarce old prints, lithographs, etc. Small 8vo. Cloth, gilt top $4.00 net

Also issued in a choice large paper limited edition consisting of 350 numbered copies on imported Normandy Vellum paper, with broad margins, and with extra illustrations, including a frontispiece in four colors, Royal 8vo, in artistic binding $12.00 net

THE HANDY REFERENCE ATLAS OF THE WORLD

Edited by JOHN BARTHOLOMEW. Previously issued in half morocco at $5.00 net. Can now also be supplied in full morocco, solid gilt edges (boxed) $7.50 net

"What Have You?" — "What Will You Have?"

Bookseller and Salesman: An Amicable Discussion

"I want a fiction title that will give me a quick turnover. There's good money in selling books—selling books, mind you, but if I were to buy all that you fellows urge—"

"Exactly! And here's your book—ONE INCREASING PURPOSE ($2.00), Hutchinson's first novel in three years. Professor Phelps is for it, heart and soul, and Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick says that its hero's name 'will be a staple of dinner table conversation on every Main Street in America before the year is out.' It is a powerful novel about religion."

"Those names sell books! I do believe, too, that the interest in religion, not religions, is stronger today than ever before. Dr. Fosdick probably is right. . . . Now show me something in a mystery or detective story—they are going better all the time."

"THE IRON CHALICE ($2.00), Octavus Roy Cohen, isn't exactly a detective story, but it deals with white characters in and out of the underworld, with suspense as mystifying as anything you've sold in a long while. It's a thriller from soup to nuts!" And Hal G. Evarts' story of a Southwestern ranch feud has a strong and unusual mystery element—SPANISH ACRES ($2.00). You endorse Evarts, I know."

"You bet! I haven't forgotten 'Tumbleweeds'."

"Here's THE MISTY FLATS ($2.00), Helen Woodbury. Let one of your women clerks read it. She'll be a booster for it, without prompting, either. It's the story of a girl whose individuality was sacrificed to satisfy her mother's selfishness."

"Mark it down! Now . . . Isn't that an Oppenheim? GABRIEL SAMARA, PEACEMAKER (Oct. 7, $2.00). International politics of the future, New York and Russia, and points between. Great!"

"More fiction? Here's MEADOWLARK BASIN ($2.00) another sure-fire B. M. Bower western; and have you noticed how well the big-time reviewers like AN OCTAVE ($2.00), Jeffery E. Jeffery, the story of an English publisher who for one week was jolted out of his complacent enjoyment of life? 'A novel to be read more than once, and with renewed pleasure,' they call it. And I'd like you to see Stephen McKenna's first book of short stories, TALES OF INTRIGUE AND REVENGE ($2.50)—brilliant stuff—and a book by a newcomer, Lenox Fane, LEGATION STREET (Oct. 17, $2.50), a revealing story of life in a Pekin Legation."

The Pennell Autobiography

"What's this handsome book? It's splendid! Absolutely splendid!"

"That is Joseph Pennell's autobiography, THE ADVENTURES OF AN ILLUSTRATOR (Nov. 7, $12.50; De Luxe Edition, limited, $75.00). It's unique among biographies, as he is among artists. The text is piquant and racy, and the format is a thing of beauty."

"Indeed it is! A book like that justifies your existence! I'll do some careful circularizing and letter-writing for it. It's one of the big biographies of the Fall."

"We've another biography of an artist—JOHN S. SARGENT: HIS LIFE AND WORK (Oct. 17, $8.00), William Howe Downes. It contains a catalogue of paintings, with 42 reproductions of them in halftone—a good buy."

"Don't crowd me, young man! But, I surrender! There's a lot of interest in Sargent."

"Well, I'll let you draw your own conclusions from the next two titles."

"PARNELL ($4.00), St. John Ervine, in that new series of yours, 'Curiosities of Politics,' edited by Philip Guedalla. I notice that Sidney Dark says it's a best seller in London. Rather candid stuff, I hear. It follows your ROBERT OWEN ($4.00), G. D. H. Cole, doesn't it—the great social reformer? And, oh, yes! THE TRUE STEVENSON: A STUDY IN CLARIFICATION (Oct. 17, $3.50; Special Edition, 250 copies, $6.50), George S. Hellman. In my opinion, Hellman knows more about the new material on Stevenson than any other man. I think I can get up a waiting list for this book . . . More biographies?"

"Yes; a 'bundle of anecdotes' by J. G. Swift MacNeill, WHAT I HAVE SEEN AND HEARD ($4.50)—he was a member of the Irish Party in Parliament, 1887 to 1918—and PORTRAITS OF A HALF CENTURY (Oct. 17, $3.00), Samuel Leland Powers, member of the Boston Bar for fifty years, and a former United States Congressman."

"Worth buying, I know. Now, you must have some particularly good drama."

Moses' New "The American Dramatist"

"Do you recognize THE AMERICAN DRAMATIST (Nov. 7, $3.50), Montrose J. Moses?"

"Oh! A new edition. It's one of my standbys, and the best authority I have. Revised?"

"More than that—completely rewritten, and much improved."

"I can well believe it, and you are to be congratulated. Any others?"

"Here's a limited edition—THE CHINESE THEATER (Oct. 17; 720 copies, $7.50), by A. E. Zucker, a former Peking professor. Four of the illustrations were painted on silk in China by native artists."

"A rarity! I'll let you know later just how many I want."

"Also a new edition of a book you know well—HOW TO PRODUCE AMATEUR PLAYS (Oct. 7, $2.00), Barrett H. Clark, and a new book you can sell to many besides your drama customers—THE ROMANCE OF THE AMERICAN THEATRE (Nov. 7, $4.00), Mary Caroline Crawford, describing the good old days of the American stage."

"Miss Crawford has the right touch; I want a good supply, by all means."

Sociology for Everyone!

"Did you see this new volume in our much-discussed series on American nationalism? THE PRESENT ECONOMIC REVOLUTION IN THE UNITED STATES ($2.50), Thomas N. Carver."

"First-rate! I saw The New York Times' more than favorable comparison of it, for fascination, with the famous books by Samuel Butler, Edward Bellamy and Wells. It looks like a real book."

Books on Varied Subjects

"Now here are several books I want you to look over. First, something frivolous! A CYNIC'S CYCLOPAEDIA ($1.00)—cartoons by Herb Roth. You'll find in it some of the shrewdest humor you've read in many a day. Here we have a prime travel book—FROM MELBOURNE TO MOSCOW ($4.00), G. C. Dixon, an Australian journalist's search for adventure and romance; something solid—CONGRESS, THE CONSTITUTION AND THE UNITED STATES (Nov. 7, $3.00), Charles Warren—"

"Oh, yes! He won a Pulitzer History Prize with his book on the Supreme Court."

"He's a remarkably able writer, and he really makes history live again! And we have something particularly for mothers—THE PRE-SCHOOL AGE ($1.50), Minnie Watson Kamm, which contains practical advice on training the mind and body of the very young child; also, a new cook book by Lucy G. Allen—A BOOK OF HORS D'ŒUVRES (Oct. 17, $1.50)."

"I need those two books, they are good investments for any woman."

"I just want to show you a few new, improved editions; you'll want some of them, I'm sure. OLD FRANCISCAN MISSIONS (Oct. 17, $2.00), George Wharton James, that popular handbook, with 32 pages of illustrations; THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES: ITS SOURCES AND ITS APPLICATION ($2.00), Thomas James Norton; and THE OUTLINE OF RADIO (Oct. 7, $2.00), John V. L. Hogan, brought still more up-to-date."

"Good enough! . . . I hear you have some particularly choice Atlantic Monthly books."

"Atlantic Monthly Press Publications"

"Thank you. We have. Here is A. Edward Newton's THE GREATEST BOOK IN THE WORLD AND OTHER PAPERS ($5.00), about rare Bibles, colored plates, Victorian popular songs, and other subjects just as interesting; INDIANS OF THE ENCHANTED DESERT ($5.00), by Leo Crane, Indian Agent in the Southwest for fourteen years; ACCORDING TO SAINT JOHN (Oct. 17, $3.50), historical criticism by Lord Charnwood; THE SMALL HOUSE PRIMER (Oct. 17, $2.50), Edwin Bonta, a practical book for planning a home of moderate size; a new novel of the Kentucky mountains by Lucy Furman, THE GLASS WINDOW (Oct. 7, $2.00); SMALL WARES (Oct. 7, $1.00), by the author of 'The Notion Counter'; a book on all sorts of African lore from the heart of its least-explored region, MY AFRICAN NEIGHBORS ($2.50), Hans Coudenhove; an authoritative book, A SHORT HISTORY OF SPAIN (Oct. 7, $3.50), Henry Dwight Sedgwick; and a charming little book for suburbanites, TWENTY MILES OUT: INDISCRETIONS OF A COMMUTER'S WIFE (Oct. 7, $1.25) by 'Herself'."

"You haven't shown me any children's books; however, I don't think I've the time—"

"That's perfectly all right! I'll see you again soon, anyway; you've been very patient with me. But I do want you to remember that we have four new titles in our 'Beacon Hill Bookshelf' (each volume, $2.00), children's classics, illustrated in color by fine artists."

"Yes, do! You've shown me a mighty interesting line, and I'm afraid I shall have to read some of them myself! Good day!"

Father William Doyle, S.J. 1873-1917

By ALFRED O'RAHILLY

New and Enlarged Authorized Copyright American Edition

This book portrays the life of an Irish Military Chaplain who died on the battlefield in Ypres on the 16th of August, 1917. To the present edition has been added a large amount of hitherto unpublished material, together with sixteen additional pictures. The memoir ranges over a wide field of interest: Mysticism, Prayers, Penance, Spiritual Direction, Retreats for the Workers. It is an extraordinary story of old-world sanctity in a very modern environment, and will appeal to everyone who values chivalrous idealism and human heroism.

"A biography of unusual distinction, worthily and most vividly depicting its subject in all the phases of an eventful and beautiful life."—Catholic Gazette.

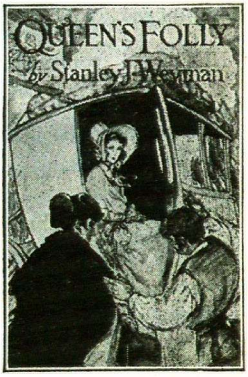
A NEW NOVEL
By STANLEY J. WEYMAN
QUEEN'S FOLLY



Tells the story of Rachel South, the young governess to the trying young Lady Ann, at Queen's Folly. It is a romance of stagecoach days in England, of the time when Lord Nelson was a popular hero, and has for one of its chief characters his faithful admirer, Captain Dunstan, a sea-going blustering, lovable individual, who helps to keep things moving. The story is generously peopled and full of incident. By turn it is dramatic, humorous and charming. It is Weyman at his best.

THE HIDDEN YEARS
By JOHN OXENHAM

The story of the boyhood, youth and early manhood of Jesus, told by the boy Jesus' next door neighbor and best chum, but who later became His partner in the carpenter's shop, his companion in the village games, and in the rambles over the hills—the quiet observer of all that passed in the simple home at Nazareth. The telling is at once robust and tender. It is wrought with most delicate tact and understanding and will never be forgotten by those who read it. It brings home to one the vitally human side of the greatest life ever lived on earth in a way that has never been done before.

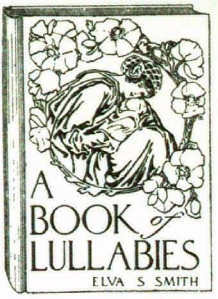
LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD CO.'S
NEW BOOKS FOR 1925

A BOOK OF LULLABIES

Compiled by ELVA S. SMITH, of the Carnegie Library, Pittsburgh

Illustrated from Prints of Famous Paintings. Price, $2.50



This fine book is distinctly not a juvenile, although very definitely concerned with young children. Only a most industrious editor of exceptional acquaintance with books and their readers could gather this appealing wealth of Cradle Songs, Folk Lullabies, and Hush Rhymes from many lands and of all times. To the oldtime favorites are added selections from such authors as Padraic Colum, Seumas MacManus, Helen Coale Crew, Louise Ayres Garnett, Elizabeth Shane, Richard Le Gallienne, Alfred Noyes, and many others. Nothing like this impressive collection has appeared, and no one can fail to feel its charm.

PRACTICAL PUBLIC SPEAKING

By BERTRAND LYON

President of the Lyon School of Expression, Denver

Crown 8vo. Price, $2.50

This is a book for the vast number of men who need public speaking for practical purposes, and are not interested in the old-fashioned theories of elocution. Professor Lyon is eminently qualified to prepare this book, which is the work of years of study experience. He has long specialized on the practical side of speaking in public. Every theory has been thoroughly tested in large classes of business men seeking the fundamentals of effective speech for actual use. This book is presented in three parts: The Man; The Message; The Delivery, the three great factors which are absolutely essential to all successful speaking. It is a book to carry the principles of Practical Speaking to our students, and to the thousands of others who have the same need but are unable to attend classes. Its field is, therefore, wide, and it will disappoint no one.

AMERICANS ALL

"There Was No Race in Democratic America That Did not Produce Its Hero."

With Portrait Frontispiece of the Author and Portrait of Each of the Nine Heroes Who are the Subjects of These Sketches

By CHAPLAIN CHELLIS V. SMITH. Price. $1.25

THIS is a book of real Americanism. It took a crisis in the world's history to bring out the heroism and grandeur of character of the nine men of strikingly varied types who are its subjects. A Protestant Chaplain, now attached to Y. D. Headquarters, tells from his full knowledge the thrilling stories of "Father John," a Roman Catholic priest; James Perry, "Y" Man, an honored scholar at college and seminary; "Go to Hell" Whittlessey, a New York lawyer, trained at Plattsburg; Alvin York, a cabin-born Tennessee mountaineer; "Mickey" Perkins, a plain Irish lad of South Boston; George Dilboy, a Greek; "Scotty, the Kid," a Boston newsboy; Sing Kee, a Chinese of the Pacific Coast; and Clarence Van Allen, a negro. The author shows each of these, most of whom paid the great sacrifice, to be a true American, grand in brotherly love, nobility of soul, dauntless courage, and supreme devotion to the Flag and that for which it stands. This book means broader fellowship, higher manhood, and better citizenship.

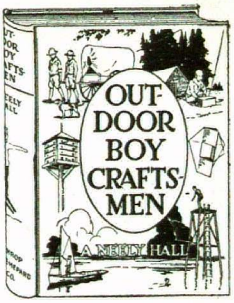
OUTDOOR BOY CRAFTSMEN

Handicraft for Home, Field, Woods and Lake

By A. NEELY HALL

Profusely Illustrated with Photographs and Working Diagrams. Price, $2.50



This eighth volume is Mr. Hall's first devoted to outdoor handicraft exclusively, and it fairly bulges with ideas for outdoor good times, including among forty-odd chapters such subjects as auto camping, a portable radio set, hike and camp kits, pushmobiles, windmobiles, ice yachts, fishing tackle, boats, traps, a diving tower, a water chute, etc., etc.

THE GOLD ROCK OF THE CHIPPEWA

By D. LANGE

Picture Jacket in Colors. Illustrated by Frank T. Merrill. Price, $1.50

The scene is laid in the region of the Great Inland Sea, Lake Superior, still a real frontier. The events occur at about the beginning of the Revolutionary War. It might be called an American Robinson Crusoe story.

THE CHIMES OF DASKAM HIGH

By AGNES MILLER

Picture Jacket in Colors and Illustrations by Elisabeth B. Warren. Price, $1.50

A group of girls and boys of to-day, active in the varied, picturesque life of a typical American high school, take the parts in this merry and stimulating story.

MISS POLLY WIGGLES

By EDNA CLARK DAVIS

Illustrations and Picture Jacket in Colors by Julia Greene. Price, $1.50

The fun in this story is at times of the most rollicking sort, and will amuse any one. A good feature is the extra large type, and the illustrations are in keeping with the story. For girls from eight to twelve, but boys will like it, too.

PATRICIA FROM NEW YORK

By MARGUERITE MURPHY

Picture Jacket in Colors and Illustrations by Elizabeth Withington. Price, $1.50

Patricia, daughter of a wealthy and prominent New York family and talented and attractive as well as indulged, could hardly help being well on the road to being spoiled. Her parents had the belated wisdom to realize this, and while they are taking a year abroad Patricia is placed with her very sensible maternal grand-parents in a Minnesota village and given her first experience in a small-town public high school.

ANN'S FAMILY

By JANET FIELD HEATH

Frontispiece and Picture Jacket in Colors and Pen-and-Ink Illustrations by L. J. Bridgman. Large Type. Price, $1.50

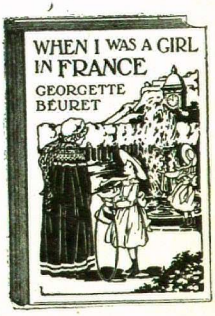
Ann was only ten, and an orphan, but her experiences made her unusually capable. Her aunts and uncles took turns in caring for her, and while they all meant to be kind, it seemed as though each contrived to have Ann come when she would be most useful. No wonder the little girl, who was such a help and comfort wherever she went, longed for a "steady family," as she expressed it. Finally a new uncle came to his old home and with him the beginning of even greater happiness than Ann had dreamed of.

WHEN I WAS A GIRL IN FRANCE

A New "Children of Other Lands" Book

By GEORGETTE BEURET

Illustrated from Photographs. Price, $1.25



Here is the child life, home life, school life, and thought life of a French girl of good family, brought up in the painstaking, serious atmosphere of France, where stress is laid on development of character and the ability to be useful; all the more so, when, as in this case, the girl is full of vitality and imagination.

ROSALIE DARE'S TEST

By AMY BROOKS, Author of the "Dorothy Dainty Books"

With Picture Jacket in Colors, and Illustrations by the Author. Price, $1.25

As in the famous "Dorothy Dainty Books" by this author, there is plenty of merriment as well as action, while good taste is ever present.

NEW EDITION

FATHER AND BABY PLAYS

By EMILIE POULSSON

Author of "Finger Plays," etc.

Music by THERESA H. GARRISON and CHARLES H. CORNISH

Illustrations by Florence E. Storer. Price, $1.50

It is hard to think up things on the spur of the moment, and Miss Poulsson with her recognized genius for child training and her poetic gift has provided for this. Excellent music adds greatly to the value of the book, and a profusion of good pictures helps complete a new and improved edition of a book that can be invaluable in every home where there is a father and a young child.

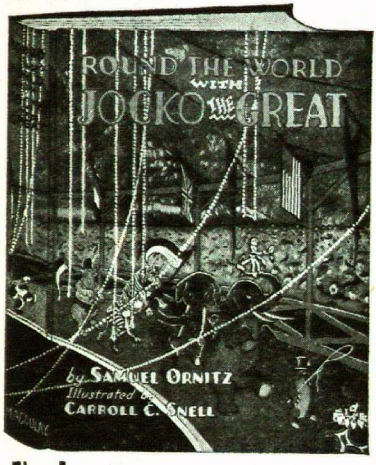
The Woman

Round the World with Jocko the Great



By Samuel Ornitz

A MAGIC JOURNEY ROUND THE WORLD FOR BOYS AND GIRLS OF ALL AGES.

It uses adventures, thrills, make-believe and travel-wonders as deft vehicles upon which to mount inspirational truths.

War, suffering and unknown dreads have made children's tales a fascinating chamber of horrors. In "Round the World with Jocko the Great" is realized the successful experiment of making the fine forces and feelings of life even more fascinating.

In addition to being qualified as a literary craftsman, Mr. Ornitz brings his ten years' experience in the child welfare movement of America to give high purposive expression to his work. And best of all it is written with a rhythm which makes a special joy of reading Jocko's adventures aloud.

MACMILLAN FALL BOOKS

BIOGRAPHY

Joan of Arc—Maid of France

by Albert Bigelow Paine

This is more than a mere biography of Joan of Arc. It is Joan herself—Joan as seen by her playmates, her comrades in battle, her judges, those who went with her to the stake, by the testimony and letters of Joan herself. It is the first authoritative story in English of the peasant girl of France who at seventeen led a nation's armies. Unknown in January, in July she crowned a king.

Two volumes. $10.00

Calvin Coolidge: The Man Who Is President

by William Allen White

Mr. White, himself a country town man, tells Coolidge's story and presents his picture with a sympathetic understanding which is most convincing. He indulges in no eulogies and presents what he considers Coolidge's weaknesses as well as his strong points. The result is an honest and interesting portrait of the man and the President. $3.50

The Letters of Sir Walter Raleigh

Edited by Lady Raleigh

These letters display to the full the qualities which led Moira O'Neil to say of Raleigh (in "Blackwood's Magazine"):

"It is the singular charm of Walter Raleigh's writing that it utters the convictions of a genuine enthusiast for literature and of an accomplished scholar in the unaffected voice of a man of the world.

Illustrated. $7.50

The Life and Letters of Thomas Jefferson

by Francis W. Hirst

The first English biography of Thomas Jefferson. A friend and disciple of Lord Morley—who encouraged him to attempt the work—Mr. Hirst is a sympathetic critic.

He considers that Jefferson has a message for the Europe and America of to-day, and it is with their problems in mind that he has made his selections from the great mass of Jefferson's letters and writings. $5.00

MACMILLAN FALL BOOKS

FICTION

Christina Alberta's Father

A new novel

by H. G. Wells

As Mr. Wells tells it, this story is both diverting and touching. There is a mystery about Christina Alberta too, which adds to the excitement. Altogether, "Christina Alberta's Father" with its humor, its flashes of satire, its picture of Christina's attempts at a free life among the Greenwich Villagers of London, is a return to the author's early manner in "Kipps" and "Mr. Polly" which will be greeted with pleasure by his readers. $2.50

The Landmark

by James Lane Allen

This new volume of short stories contains "The Landmark," a never before printed story and the last work of its much loved author. None of the other stories have ever appeared in book form. In variety of theme, charm of manner, and thorough understanding of human motives, this book is a fresh testimony of the genius of one of the most loved and widely read of American story-tellers. $2.50

Ernestine Sophie

by Sophia Cleugh

Another piquant, wide-awake heroine dominates this second novel by Mrs. Cleugh, as Matilda, full of surprises, dominated the first. Ernestine Sophie is keen-witted and independent with all her charm, and she handles a revolution and a suitor with equal aplomb. No one who likes a lively romance with an unusually appealing heroine should fail to read Ernestine Sophie. $2.00

Krakatit

by Karel Capek

Of especial interest to readers is Karel Capek's new novel, the first to be translated into English. Capek, it will be remembered, is the author of "R. U. R." and the "Insect Play," both of which have met with great success on the stage. Indeed, it is predicted that "Krakatit" will be for fiction what these have been for the stage.

My Tower in Desmond

by S. R. Lysaght

Adventure and beauty combined in an interesting and exciting story of the Boer War, the Gallipoli and the Easter Rebellion. It is a story full of human interest. Nick and Brian are in sharp contrast—the nature-loving country gentleman and the ardent, impetuous nationalist—yet they are bound together by a friendship stronger than any ties of politics or fortune. It is a story full of human interest. $2.25

POETRY AND DRAMA

The Trial of Jesus

by John Masefield

Mr. Masefield presents in this play the closing scenes of Jesus' life—the betrayal by Judas in the garden, the examination by the priests, by Pilate, and by King Herod, and the passing of the sentence of death.

While he tells the story with great dignity and often uses the very words of the New Testament, he has amplified it in such a way as to give it the vividness of a present tragedy instead of the softened impressiveness of a historical event. $1.75

Collected Works of John Masefield

All of Mr. Masefield's work, excepting his novels and short stories, is brought together in these four volumes. $3.50 each volume.

Vachel Lindsay

Collected Poems

Mr. Lindsay himself has illustrated this new edition of his "Collected Poems" with many characteristic drawings. He has also written a new introduction for the volume, and has added new poems. $3.50

R. M. Adams

Rude Rural Rhymes

The author of these "Rural Rhymes" whimsically brackets himself with Shakespeare. He is "full of wise says and modern instances," spiced moreover with homely wit and philosophy. $2.00

Edgar Lee Masters

Selected Poems

Mr. Masters himself selected from among all his published verse the poems he wished included in this one representative volume. $2.50

Marguerite Wilkinson

Yule Fire, An Anthology

The sweet homeliness of the early carols and the reverent insight of the best modern lyrics make this a book to be cherished.

Illustrated. $2.50

John G. Neihardt

The Song of the Indian Wars

This new poem by Mr. Neihardt carries on his epic which was begun in "The Song of Three Friends" and "The Song of Hugh Glass."

GENERAL

Etchers and Etching

Chapters in the History of the Art, Together with Technical Explanations of Modern Artistic Methods

by Joseph Pennell

"Mr. Pennell's book, designed for the collector as well as the student, is a beautiful piece of book-making; the reproductions of the etchings are much finer than those commonly to be met with. The text is divided into two parts: the first studies the work of the great etchers; the second explains with lucidity the technical processes which are involved in the making of an etching; it also discusses their preservation, cataloging, mounting and arranging. This section is rich with information drawn from Mr. Pennell's long experience."—The Nation. New and cheaper edition. Revised and with a new Preface. $10.00

Hooked Rugs and How to Make Them

by Anna M. Laise Phillips

Mrs. Phillips tells how she first became interested in hooked rugs. Then come very practical chapters on how to make them. $2.00

The Little World

by Stella Benson

Stella Benson writes about places and people in America, Japan, China and India, including a vivid account of her wedding journey across "the States" in a Ford. $2.50

Science and the Modern World

by A. N. Whitehead

"Science and the Modern World" is an amplification of a course of Lowell Lectures delivered by the author in February, 1925, and now first published. The book is thus an attempt to lay the foundations of a cosmology which shall be in close relation to the actual thought of the present age both on its scientific and its religious sides. $4.00

The Permanent Court of International Justice

by Antonio S. de Bustamante

Judge of the Permanent Court of International Justice

A story of the creation, organization, and work of the World Court by one of the Judges of the Court itself. $2.50

The Tragedy of Waste

by Stuart Chase

Mr. Chase shows by a great wealth of concrete examples that our industrial speed, our salesmanship, our pep is terrific, but we gain slowly, if at all in the achievement of real human wants supplied. $2.50

RELIGIOUS BOOKS

WHAT AND WHY IS MAN? by Richard LaRue Swain

Dr. Swain's previous book, "What and Where is God?" has been one of the best-selling religious books on our list. The reason is not far to seek. Dr. Swain writes about religion the way the editors of our most widely-read newspapers write about politics—so that "the man in the street" can understand him.

Contents: Who Made God? How Did God Make the Human Body? Is the Method of Human Propagation Ideal? How is the Soul Made? Why Did God Make Man at All? Why Were We Not Born in Heaven? Does God Cause Earthquakes and Cyclones? Where Did Sin Come From? Did Man "Fall Upward?" Why Did Jesus Die? Why Do We Pray? For What Do We Live? $1.75

LIBERAL CHRISTIANITY
by William Pierson Merrill

Between the two extremes of Modernism and Fundamentalism stands a large body of Christians, some liberal, some conservative, but all evangelical. Dr. Merrill writes as the spokesman of the liberals among these evangelical Christians. A book sure to be talked about. $1.75

REALITY IN WORSHIP
by Willard L. Sperry

Dean Sperry uses a new avenue of approach to his subject. Instead of spending his strength upon ritualistic details, he sets himself the task of answering the question, "What is supposed to go on in us when we are at church?" $2.50

JESUS OF NAZARETH
by Joseph Klausner

The central figure of Christianity as seen by one of the greatest of modern Hebrew writers and historians. The first attempt on the part of a Jewish author to treat the subject scientifically. 450 pages. Crown octavo. $4.50

SCIENCE AS REVELATION
by John M. Watson

"I am a business man, but science has been my hobby since boyhood. Well-grounded in orthodoxy in my youth, science has led the way for me to a newer, higher and holier religious faith." Illustrated, $2.25

GRACE AND PERSONALITY
by John C. Oman

"When attention is fixed on grace as a gift merely given and on works as human resolves merely carried through, no attention is apt to be paid to the gracious relation of the Father to His Children."
Third revised edition. $2.50

CARDINAL IDEAS OF ISAIAH
by Charles E. Jefferson

Dr. Jefferson's newest work. "A study of human nature" (in the person of Isaiah) and of national human nature (in the state of Judah) in Dr. Jefferson's best style. $1.75

THE CHURCH OF THE SPIRIT
by Francis G. Peabody

Brings to a close that notable and widely-read series of works which began with "Jesus Christ and the Social Question." A book for the growing host who are tired of newspaper religion and its verbal battlings. $2.00

SCIENCE, RELIGION AND REALITY
by Various Writers

Introduction by Lord Balfour. Conclusion by Dean Inge

"Its authors are among the men best qualified in the world to write about their several topics. It is unlikely that a better book will be written for many years on this subject."—Professor E. L. Thorndike, Columbia University. $3.00

THE AIM OF JESUS CHRIST
by William Forbes Cooley

A keen and clearly written attempt to reconstruct the aim of Jesus and to focus it, as a searchlight, on present day issues. $2.00

SHARING IN CREATION
by W. Cosby Bell

A nobly enheartening discussion, which concludes that the full solutions of most of our problems remain as yet to be worked out, and that Christianity is neither a philosophy nor a life, but both, and both at the same time. $2.00

THE MODERN USE OF THE BIBLE by Harry Emerson Fosdick

"The Modern Use of the Bible" has back of it more free newspaper and magazine publicity given to its author, than any other religious book. That explains why it has been in the best seller class since publication. $1.60

ROOSEVELT AND THE OLD GUARD

By J. Hampton Moore

Theodore Roosevelt was a kaleidoscopic character. No matter the angle from which he was observed he presented a different picture. In the capacity of Congressman, Mayor of Philadelphia, President of the National Republican League, etc., Hampton Moore saw him with the eyes of a trained observer, and yet there was no mental astigmatism in his vision, and his book thus becomes a valuable contribution to Rooseveltian literature.

ROBERT M. McBRIDE & COMPANY, New York

A. C. McCLURG & CO.

The following entertaining novels are scheduled for the Autumn. Note the fact that they are by authors who have made good. Briefly they are clean, absorbing, high-speed yarns of romance and adventure such as make the favorite reading of ninety per cent of fiction readers.

THE ETERNAL LOVER

By Edgar Rice Burroughs
Author of "Tarzan of the Apes," etc.

The scene of THE ETERNAL LOVER is laid mostly in the Stone Age. Nu, the hero of the book, was a mighty hunter. With his flint-headed spear and his crude knife he did not hesitate to fight single-handed the great cave bear, the colossal mammoth, the ferocious saber-tooth tiger and other giant animals and reptiles of the tertiary period.

Nat-ul was the belle of the tribe, greatly desired by all the young men, but Nat-ul loved only Nu and THE ETERNAL LOVER is the story of the love of Nu and Nat-ul through the ages.

Weird, thrilling and mysterious, are the glimpses of pre-historic life. Brave, resourceful, valiant and daring is Nu, the perfect lover. Graceful and beautiful is Nat-ul, the primitive maiden. And finally, THE ETERNAL LOVER is from the pen of the man who wrote TARZAN OF THE APES, the most popular author of romantic fiction that ever lived. Frontispiece and Colored Jacket. Price $2.00

THE ROAD TO MONTEREY

By George Washington Ogden
Author of "Trail's End," "The Rustler of Wind River," etc.

It was in the old days of Mexican occupation "before the Gringos came" that Gabriel Henderson, Yankee from New England, found himself stranded in California. A queer combination of circumstances made him peon to Don Abrahan, feudal lord of a vast estate.

The American dared to lift his eyes to a Spanish-American lady of rank and wealth, betrothed to the dissolute son of the Don. Safety for Gabriel lay only in flight and in his reaching far-away Monterey, the road to which was swarming with Don's men, eager to earn the reward for his body—dead or alive.

And then came the war for California. The lone Yankee raised his flag and, "acting for the U. S., claimed the country." Quite a large order but he made good, aided by the arrival in the nick of time of the American troops. Frontispiece and Colored Jacket. Price $2.00.

THE CATTLE BARON

By Robert Ames Bennet
Author of "The Rough Rider," "Branded," etc.

Hanum Iliff of the Hi Bar Ranch was mad clean through. Rustlers had just made a raid on his cattle and a bunch of nesters, his especial aversion, were encamped on the edge of the range.

"Run 'em off," he snapped to his foreman, who happened to be his son. So Will, with a couple of punchers, galloped off and a bit later the eviction proceedings were going along rapidly. Suddenly a girl with flashing black eyes, and a formidable gun in each hand, appears on the scene and gets the drop on the cowmen. Will capitulated, vanquished by the eyes rather than the guns.

Thus begins this thrilling tale of western ranch life and the promise of the beginning is carried right through to the end. Concisely it is a drama of the west, a picture of the days when the open range was passing and the great cattle kings were tottering on their thrones.

THE CATTLE BARON is a worthy addition to the list of splendid western stories written by Mr. Bennet. Frontispiece and Colored Jacket. Price $2.00.

THE VALLEY OF MISSING MEN

By Lynn Gunnison
Author of "Moran of Saddle Butte."

Buck Fargo was in bad. Riders were on his trail, tracking him as they would have tracked a wild beast, and at first glimpse they would shoot, and shoot to kill. Buck was not guilty of the crime which had been fastened upon him but circumstances were against him and his denial simply made matters worse.

Buck made for the mountains and finally eluded his pursuers. Eventually he found his way to Hell's Kitchen, a deserted mining town with a malodorus reputation. Hell's Kitchen harbored a mystery. Men went into the valley and never returned. How Buck solved this mystery, how he cleared himself of the charge against him and how he found the only girl, are the principal plot factors in this fascinating story of Western life. Frontispiece and Colored Jacket. Price $2.00.

THE BULLET EATER

By Oscar J. Friend
Author of "The Round-Up."

The Bullet Eater obtained his extraordinary cognomen because he seemed to bear a charmed life under fire and quailed men by a glance. Bad men feared him more than they feared the law. None cared to face him single handed, and rustlers and ruffians trembled at his mere name.

The story is laid in the same locality as the author's previous book, THE ROUND UP, and some of the same characters appear. It has all the action of that successful work with greater scope and appeal. Frontispiece and Colored Jacket. Price $2.00.

THE BANDIT OF HELL'S BEND

By Edgar Rice Burroughs
Author of "Tarzan of the Apes," etc.

No better yarn of the old cattle days can be found in current fiction. Tense dramatic situations; unforgetable characters presented with incomparable skill; the humor and repartee of the boys and the atmosphere, glamour and romance of the wild west. Frontispiece and Colored Jacket. Price $2.00.

THE CANDLE IN THE WINDOW

By Margaret Hill McCarter
Author of "The Price of the Prairie," "The Peace of the Solomon Valley," etc.

Thousands have read that wonderful little story, THE PEACE OF THE SOLOMON VALLEY. Thousands have felt its charm and sensed its message. Thousands of pleased readers have been loud in its praise.

Here is another little masterpiece of short fiction; a gem of the first water; clean and sweet, with an appeal to all that is best in human nature. Gift book style, decorative flexible binding, boxed. Price $1.00.

MONTHS of PREPARATION

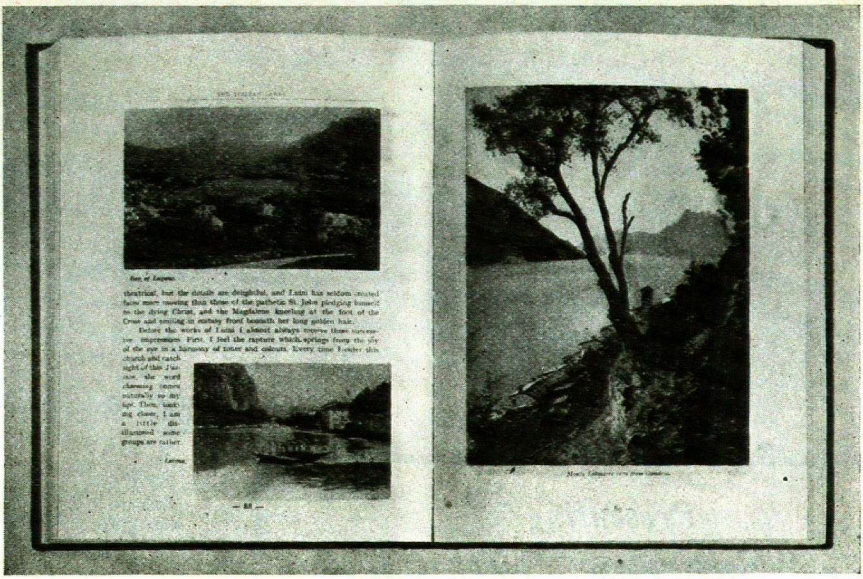
go into the announcements of a fall publishing season. Books that authors conceived years ago, or began to write months ago, are now ready for their public. Volumes that publishers have long labored on and slowly developed, are at last out from the manufacturing department and ready for shipping. Books that will influence history, that will change tides of thought, that will continue great traditions, are on their way to their destiny. There is something thrilling about a Fall Announcement number that every bookseller feels



ABOUT 200 PHOTOGRAVURE ILLUSTRATIONS IN EVERY VOLUME

THE PICTURE GUIDES

"The Medici Society have apparently set themselves to convince a doubting world that even a guide-book may be a thing of beauty."—Weekly Westminster.

1. GRENOBLE AND THEREABOUTS. By Henri Ferrand. Grenoble, which is becoming increasingly popular as a centre for winter sports and Alpine climbing is the capital of the French Alps and is incomparably situated within reach of the high Alps, the forest of Chartreuse and its celebrated Monastery and the Lakes of Laffrey.
2. THE ITALIAN LAKES. By Gabriel Faure. "A beautiful book wonderfully illustrated in photogravure. Perusing the book those who love Italy will love her the more, and those who have never seen her will resolve to visit her lakes or die." —T. P.'s and Cassell's Weekly.
3. MONT BLANC. By Roger Tissot. "A delightful book of appreciation and gusto, written and prefaced by two leaders among mountaineers—many of its illustrations are enchanting."—Manchester Guardian.
4. THE LAND OF ST. FRANCIS OF ASSISI. By Gabriel Faure. Many volumes have appeared dealing with the life and works of St. Francis of Assisi, but here is one which describes the country-side that he loved, the gentle plains of Umbria, Perugia, the fields of Nevagna, where he preached to the birds, and the churches which he founded in Assisi. No one is better qualified to describe such scenes than Gabriel Faure.
5. THE FRENCH RIVIERA. By Pierre Devoluy and Pierre Borel. With Preface by Arnold Bennet. The authors of this volume are particularly well qualified to describe the sunny cities of the Cote d'Azur, Nice, Mentone, Grasse, Hyeres, Cannes, Monte-Carlo, etc., and the history, legends and natural beauties of the countryside.
6. FLANDERS & HAINAULT. By Clive Holland, author of "The Belgians at Home." A graphic account of the Western Section of Belgium by an author who knows the country intimately. His descriptions of Bruges, Brussels, Ghent, Ypres, Mons and other famous places are accompanied by over 150 photogravure illustrations.

Each Volume $2.50. Sold separately.

Other volumes in preparation.

JEAN VALJEAN

Enjolras, who had just reloaded his, handed it to him. Jean Valjean aimed at the garret-window and fired; one of the two cords of the mattress was cut asunder, and it only hung by one thread. Jean Valjean fired the second shot, and the second cord lashed the garret-window; the mattress glided between the two poles and fell into the street. The insurgents applauded, and every voice cried:

CAN A MAN BE A CHRISTIAN TO-DAY?

By William Louis Poteat

"This book comprises the text of the McNair Lectures, delivered at the university, and it reveals the secret of why Poteat has survived in the orthodox South. The man is such a master of the singing phrase as not even the South has often seen. Can a Man Be a Christian To-day? is not an argument. It is a confession of faith. It does, indeed, contain a terrific, a devastating attack on the fundamentalism that seeks policemen to protect Christianity, but in the main it is a triumphant proclamation of a personal faith."—The Baltimore Evening Sun. $1.50

The First Oxford Bible Issued, 1675

250th Anniversary of the

OXFORD BIBLE

THE first Oxford Bible was published 250 years ago. This is a notable event because it was the forerunner of millions of other copies that were to find their way to every corner of the earth. Their influence no one can estimate.

The publishing equipment of 1675 was so primitive that it must have been a tremendous undertaking to publish a Bible. The world needed Bibles however, so regardless of difficulties and hazards, the Oxford University Press undertook and successfully performed the task.

This same spirit of service has continued to inspire the succeeding generations at Oxford to this day. Improvements have been made constantly, some of them revolutionizing all bookmaking, as in the case of the introduction of the famous Oxford India paper which was first used in Oxford Bibles in 1875.

Centuries of endeavor by skilled workmen of successive generations —the constant adherence to the highest ideals in Bible making—have evolved the Oxford standard and resulted in the extensive sales of Bibles bearing the Oxford imprint.

The wide distribution of Oxford Bibles is due not only to their generally conceded high quality but to the loyal cooperation of booksellers everywhere to whom we now extend our hearty thanks.

ALL QUESTIONS ANSWERED

The most valuable reputation that a bookstore can acquire is the reputation for prompt and intelligent service in supplying the new books. No store can carry every new book, and no salesman on the floor can keep in his memory every title that he has seen announced. The Fall Announcement Index should be close at hand in every department of a bookstore as it is the quick key to 3300 new books with full description in the publisher's advertising.

Hailed Everywhere as the Outstanding Book of the Year

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS: 1892-1916

By VISCOUNT GREY OF FALLODON, K. G.

The memoirs of England's great statesman, Foreign Secretary during the early war years, who knew intimately all who contributed to a most momentous period of world history. Lord Grey enters deeply into British-American relations and reveals many transactions never before made public. He gives us some new Roosevelt letters. His memoirs supplement in many ways "The Life and Letters of Walter H. Page." 32 illustrations, 2 volumes, cloth, large 8vo, boxed, net $10.00.

New Novels

WE MUST MARCH

By HONORÉ WILLSIE MORROW

Author of "Still Jim," "The Enchanted Canyon," etc.

A remarkable American historical novel, a romance of the pioneers and of the winning of Oregon. The heroine is beautiful Narcissa Whitman who traveled the Oregon trail, when no white woman had yet crossed the Rockies, as the bride of a medical missionary. In a lonely mission she and Marcus Whitman fought a great battle for their country and for their love. Cloth, 12mo, full color "all over" picture jacket, net $2.00.

POSSESSION

By LOUIS BROMFIELD

Author of "The Green Bay Tree"

Look up your sales records of Louis Bromfield's first novel "The Green Bay Tree." Then note that a prominent critic to whom we submitted the ms. said: "I have no hesitation in saying that 'Possession' is not merely an amazing advance upon 'The Green Bay Tree,' but puts the author at once in the very front rank of present-day American novelists." We agree so heartily that we urge you strongly to watch your stock carefully. Striking jacket, Cloth, 12mo, net $2.50.

EMILY CLIMBS

By L. M. MONTGOMERY

Author of "Anne of Green Gables," etc.

The creator of Anne of Green Gables "has given her world of readers another child heroine to take to their hearts," said the Boston Herald on the appearance of "Emily of New Moon." Emily's new story takes her through her high school years. It can safely be recommended to all who like simple, interesting stories about wholesome young people. Picture jacket in color, cloth, 12mo, net $2.00.

RUBEN and IVY SEN

By LOUISE JORDAN MILN

Author of "In a Shantung Garden," etc.

This is the story of what happened to the son and daughter of "Mr. and Mrs. Sen." When the English girl in Mrs. Miln's previous book married a wealthy Chinese she did not realize the heart-breaking problems her children would have to face. Chinese jacket, cloth, 12mo, net $2.00.

The LOVE RACK

By CECIL ROBERTS

Author of "Sails of Sunset," etc.

Cecil Roberts' new novel, again set largely on the Italian coast, is as full of gorgeous color as his earlier books, but adds to the beauty of description a plot more interesting, more full of action, than any he has yet given us. A splendid romance. Full color jacket, cloth, 12mo, net $2.00.

The IMPERFECT IMPOSTOR

By NORMAN VENNER

The story of the marvelous resemblance between two men, told with a twist of common sense. The characters are not successful with the masquerade but each pawn in the game conceals his knowledge of the truth. Silhouette jacket, cloth, 12mo, net $2.00.

A Companion Volume to It Can Be Done

FACING FORWARD. Poems of Courage

Collected by Joseph Morris and St. Clair Adams

This compilation has been done with all the conspicuous merit that has made the former book the best selling collection of poetry since Palgrave's "Golden Treasury." Not a single poem is duplicated, but such popular authors of the former volume as Kipling, Wilcox, Guest, Mason, Foss, Appleton, Stanton, Riley and a host of others are again represented. Its binding and type are identical with the previous volume, and every person who has bought "It Can Be Done" will want this new book by the same compilers.

MODERN PRISCILLA COOK BOOK

This is a book many women have been waiting for. In it will be found 1000 recipes that have passed the critical test for the well-known Priscilla Proving Plant, where results gained by trained workers in the kitchen must stand or fall on the verdict which comes from the varied group that gathers around the family dining table. Besides recipes, you will find here much that other cook books lack—some things never before included in any cook book. Time required for cooking, temperatures, approximate number of servings per recipe, explanation of cooking terms, things to remember when cooking different kinds of dishes, rules for quantity cookery, balanced menus for the family, menus for special occasions, correct table setting and service—all this and much more is contained between the washable oil cloth covers of this excellent book.

This volume will solve the problem, for the sketches therein contained are of the best-known boys and girls of juvenile fiction—David Copperfield, Alice in Wonderland, The Little Lame Prince, Rebecca—characters no doubt known to many children but not to all.

ANNOUNCING

THE EARLY PUBLICATION OF

THE MEMOIRS OF
WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN

BY HIMSELF AND HIS WIFE,
MARY BAIRD BRYAN

MRS. William Jennings Bryan has arranged to publish the Memoirs of her husband sooner than she had at first thought possible. She was directed by her husband's will to prepare this Biography.

Mr. Bryan had, before his death, prepared a part of his Memoirs. His competent and talented wife carries them to the end of his life and tells the story from the intimate and personal side. There will be many chapters of heretofore unwritten history concerning certain episodes that have not been understood and revealing important facts that it was impossible to make known during Mr. Bryan's lifetime. In justice to her husband's memory, Mrs. Bryan feels that the time has now come when the truth should be told.

It is fortunate that Mr. Bryan should have so sympathetic a biographer and that Mrs. Bryan is able to give the record of his life to the world so soon after he has passed from the scene of his earthly labors. The publishers aim to have the work ready for issue in November.

The complete work will be issued in a large octavo volume, comprising approximately 600 pages and will include a large number of illustrations.

UNCLE SAM NEEDS A WIFE

By IDA CLYDE CLARK

A BOOK THAT WILL BE DISCUSSED AND WILL CAUSE DISCUSSION

The preparation of this book was stimulated by the thousands of letters of request for such a volume from men and women who read the author's editorials or heard her speak. This book enters into detail regarding the need of women's viewpoint in politics. Is Uncle Sam married? Ida Clyde Clark says no. It is true Uncle Sam proposed, in writing, in the Nineteenth Amendment. Why has not the wedding come off? Read this book.

Let a Slogan Work for Your Bookstore

By Ernest A. Dench

"WHAT use is a slogan to me?" a book dealer remarked to us the other day. There is nothing which makes my bookshop any different from hundreds of others. I sell the same kinds of books at the same prices and try to render the same kind of intelligent service."

It looked a pretty bad case to us, even tho the leading book dealer in the community was speaking.

A bookish person came in and wanted some out-of-print book, the title of which we have forgotten. He informed the book dealer that he had heard that this shop had a reputation for handling special book orders.

Right there was a slogan in the making. We jotted it down on a slip of paper, and when our friend was disengaged, we handed it to him.

The slip read:

IF IT'S A BOOK WE HAVE IT OR WILL GET IT

"It takes an outsider to come in and find something about my book business I've overlooked," he commented. "I'm going to adopt your suggestion."

There are undoubtedly many other book dealers in the same boat, judging by the scarcity of good bookshop slogans.

Bookshop Atmosphere

One important angle which needs to be put across is the fact that a bookstore is different from most retail stores.

If it appeals to the genuine book lover, it has an uncommercial atmosphere about it—the tendency to browse around and not be bothered by aggressive salesmen with an eye to the commission above their regular salary, as in many other kinds of stores.

Department stores and drug stores may sell the same books, but there isn't the same unhurried atmosphere. Those who buy books pretty much as they buy cotton goods and groceries, once they invade a bookshop of this type, feel like going often. It's getting them in for the first time that's the hardest.

Much as the book dealer may rave about outside competition, he has an asset here, which, if capitalized, will counteract the price slashing habits of department and drug stores.

How to present this bookshop atmosphere convincingly is the problem. The slogans used by other bookstores may prove of aid.

"COME IN AND BROWSE AROUND"

invites Scrantom, Wetmore and Co., Rochester, New York. Chapman's Book Store, Montreal, Canada, is known as

"THE BOOK LOVER'S MECCA."

The slogan employed by Ireland & Allan, Vancouver, B. C., Canada, is

"BOOK LOVER'S RETREAT."

Another example with a punch in it is

"YOU CAN REST AND READ AT BUMPUS'S"

used by the shop of that name in Oxford Street, London, England. A little longer than the average slogan is

"Our Shop Is a Veritable Treasure House of Good Books—Come in and Browse Around," adopted by Russell-Langs, Winnipeg, Man., Canada.

"A Bookstore of Rare Excellence" advertises the business of Brockmann's, Charlotte, North Carolina.

Complete Stocks in Slogan Form

Do you pride yourself on your complete stocks? If so, there's a slogan at your beck and call to express the fact in an appropriate manner.

"The House of a Million Books" belongs to Powner's Book Store, Chicago, Illinois.

"We Are Leading—A Few Are Trailing" declares the Baptist Book Store, Jackson, Minnesota.

"Get it Where They Have it" suggests the Bartlet Book Store, Jefferson City, Missouri.

Importance of Location

Bookstores are not always located in main thorofares, or if they are, seldom on the high rent blocks. A slogan giving your location aids in attracting new customers. C. Howes, St. Leonards-on-Sea, Sussex, England, is

"One Door from London Road Warrior Square End."

In New York City is Malkan's Book Shop, and

"In the Heart of the Wall Street District."

Unclassified Examples

Slogans that are difficult to classify, but which, nevertheless, express the personality of the stores concerned, are:

"The Bookstore That Appreciates Your Business"
Greensboro Book Co., Greensboro, North Carolina.

"The Service Store of Readables," Schlafman Brothers, Haverhill, Mass.

"The Nation's Bookstore,"

McDevitt-Wilson's, New York City.

Filling a Specialized Need

And still the range of slogan themes is not exhausted. One might say there is no end to them. There are slogans for special occasions or separate departments, when the slogan advertising the shop as a whole can be sidetracked. This is especially effective in newspaper advertisements and circular letters devoted to your circulating library, children's books, the Christmas gift trade, your customers on a vacation, your religious books department, your textbook department, your second-hand book department, etc. A few suggestions of our own:

"There's Nothing Better Than Our Circulating Library for the Long Evenings"

"Every Good Book Published for Children"

"Christmas Gift Books You've Been Looking For"

"Whatever the Trade, We've a Textbook For It"

"Your Vacation—Our Parcel Post Service Reaches Everywhere"

Adding to Book Lover Army

An altogether different type of slogan is that which adds to the army of book lovers. This must sell books, not simply as books, or your store as headquarters for the same, but entertainment, amusement and knowledge. One or more of these slogans can be employed simultaneously, as was done by J. Gulliford & Sons, Cardiff, Wales, in two small window displays, one devoted to fiction, the other to books of general interest. At the top and bottom of the plate glass frontage of both rims were streamers broadcasting the following messages:

"Books Give Ispiration, Entertainment and Knowledge"

"The Greatest Pleasure in Life Is That of Reading"

"Books to Interest, Elevate and Amuse"

"Every Real Home Has Books"

Which, incidentally, reminds us that we have said much about the choice of a slogan, but little about the ways in which it can be profitably used.

No Increased Advertising Expense

When a new phase of advertising is brought to the book dealer's attention, he immediately thinks of the extra expense usually involved—and his advertising appropriation cannot always be stretched beyond its present limits.

This factor does not enter into the adoption of a slogan, which is an advertising medium in an advertising medium. In other words, it is like the cuckoo which prefers to raise its young in the nests of other birds. It can't help being a petty grafter, but it is the unobjectionable kind.

Where the slogan is most widely used is at the bottom of newspaper advertisements, between the name and address of the concern, in addition to the same location on business letterheads, envelopes and circulars and parcel labels.

We have also seen it doing duty at the top of a painted poster.

In brief, whatever forms of advertising in which the bookdealer indulges, there is a legitimate place for the slogan at no added expense. Nice and soft for the book dealer. Nice and soft, too, for the slogan.

Your Window---The Main Link in Publishers' "Best Seller" Campaigns

Display Material Prepared for Dealers Concentrates "Best Seller" Sales in the Bookstore

BEST Sellers everywhere! And whether they will or will not fulfill the expectations of both retailer and publisher depends upon how thoroly the one will cooperate with the other.

Dealer cooperation does not consist merely of "quantities" ordered from the traveler. The original quantity is only a first guess after all, re-orders are the things that count. The entire vocabulary of good business is summed up in the word "re-order," or, in its more popular synonym, "turnover"; and for bookseller and publisher, both, the profits of this fall's business are in getting results from the extensive advertising that will be done.

Publishers are planning to spend more money in advertising this year than ever before. Prospectuses have been prepared and sent to the trade in advance of the campaign showing the kind of copy that will be used and telling also in what newspapers and magazines it is to be run.

A large part of the publishers' advertising appropriation is being spent on display material for the dealers. Every effort has been made to get away from stereotyped displays. Each "big" book has its special promotion plan, with display material carefully selected to appeal to the purchaser of that type of story. In short everything has been done that would make the use of displays profitable for the dealer. One publisher is preparing a poster aimed at dignity rather than extravagant color, another with a different kind of book, found that a lithographed mounted display in five or even eight colors was better suited.

This wealth of display material should make every bookshop window pictorially among the most attractive in the business area. Books have always had the greatest human appeal—to the heart. Now modern merchandising methods are to turn this appeal into profits for the bookseller.

Therefore booksellers, use the publishers' displays! If they have not been sent to you, write for them. For your convenience we shall publish in this and succeeding issues of the Publishers' Weekly a list of publishers and the material which they have prepared for use in your windows.

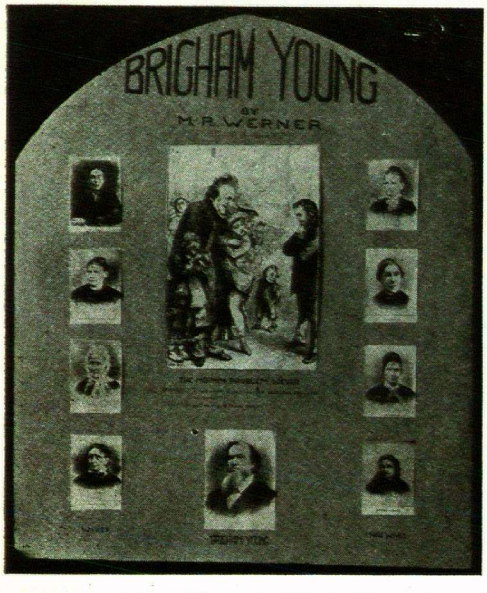
Types of Display Materials Publishers are Supplying

Bookstore Windows Helped to Effective Selling



A DEPARTURE FROM THE USUAL GIRL TYPE OF POSTER

PUBLISHERS as well as booksellers realize the money value of a bookstore windows and are making large investments in display material to supply the background for the fall leaders.

There can never be any one perfect way to make windows pull but features such as those illustrated here and more fully indexed in the accompanying pages will give some idea of what is ready this season for the display managers.

A window has to do three things: catch attention; arouse interest, and create desire. The poster's chief function is to catch attention. By stronger colors, by news emphasis, by special details the passers-by must be made to stop, then the wording on poster or book must suggest the topic covered and finally this must connect with some reading interest or previous suggestion in the mind of the looker-in.

Authors as Writers of Advertising Copy

THERE have been several experiments in the advertising field lately of obtaining ad copy from well-known writers, therefore adding reading interest to the general proposals contained in the promotion space. A leading editorial in Printers' Ink of August 27th described this situation as a significant development in advertising. Irvin Cobb has been copy writer for Sweet Caporals, Will Rogers has had a much discussed series on Bull Durham, etc.

It was suggested to the Publishers' Weekly that this might serve as a suggestion to writers to turn copy producers for book publishers, thereby getting an increased area of reading interest into the advertising space. The editor asked Robert Gordon Anderson, who has had practical experience in publishers' promotion work and is a writer himself, to give an opinion on the value to the book-trade of this suggestion.

His comment is:

"I do not know that I can answer your question about the author as copy-writer as you would like to have me answer it; and I am sure that such authorities as George H. Doran, John Macrae, George H. Putnam, Charles H. Denhard, and Bruce Barton, to name but a few, could reply with a far better effect.

"And, too, you see, I am a little skeptical—and I think the public is also—about the absolute sincerity of the various celebrities who endorse other commodities. Perhaps Will Rogers does roll his own with Bull Durham—I'm sure I don't know; but I am afraid a certain gentleman of literary distinction who vows his constancy to a well-known cigar never smokes anything but cigarettes; another nothing but cigars at three dollars a throw. And I do know that an actor of renown who advocates the use of a health device for women never tried it on himself and never had the privilge of seeing it tried on by the fair; for he told me so. Much of all this impressive publicity is, as they roughly but aptly say, 'the bunk'

"It is true that Theodore Roosevelt believed in the books he endorsed, but he endorsed too many. Of course, such a tribute as that of Galsworthy to "Green Mansions' can make or save a book—if not tried too often. Overdone, the practice will not attract any more readers than the usual publisher's blurb. Authors, like men in other callings, are, despite all libels to the contrary, really human, you know; and it is so easy to endorse the work of a friend at a publisher's or advertising man's request. I have one on my desk now—a fairly good book it is, too; but I've just got to refuse, for it's not one I can get awfully keen over.

"The public has been sold so often, I am afraid; and few believe any more that bathing beauties and stars of the silver screen actually use all the powders, lotions, soaps, safety-razors, sauces, corn-plasters, hair-removers, and bonbons they are credited with using. If they did, they would have little time to go on with their real work and would spend their tender years in chewing chocolates, removing superfluous hair, or powdering their noses. As a matter of fact, it is usually the press-agent or the star's representative that alone makes the arrangement; yet it is not considered unethical for the celebrity to lend his or her name to the exploitation of the article in question.

"All this, of course, is not to suggest that either authors or publishers are not men of integrity; but I do doubt the effectiveness of the continued use of advertising copy for books, signed by writing men. Clever and ingenious copy would help as all such advertising does, no matter by whom written; but signed endorsements should I think, be used with discretion, and only now and then. It's a stunt that should not degenerate into a common practice. And above all, when it is used, there should be sincerity and honesty behind it. There are many commodities on the market; but most of all, I take it, do people demand these qualities in any endorsement of a book."

The World's Greatest Achievement in Book Distribution

The German Booktrade Organization

By Stanley Unwin
of George Allen & Unwin Ltd., London

I

ONE hundred years ago there was founded in Leipzig what is today the most complete organization for book distribution which exists anywhere in the world. It is doubtful whether those three enterprising booksellers, Horvath of Potsdam, Campe from Nuremberg and Voigt from Ilmeñau knew how wisely and how well they were building when they laid down the foundation stone by cooperating to lease and establish a definite place where the yearly settlement of the "on sale or return" business could be concluded. At first it was at Richter's coffee house; later in the lecture room of the Faculty of Divinity, where from that time onward all the booksellers visiting the Leipzig Booksellers' Fair met to settle their accounts. The founders having provided both the accommodation and the necessary furniture and thus started "Die Börse" (The Exchange or Bourse), as it is called, treated it as the property of the whole book-trade.

All booksellers, prepared to abide by the regulations and to adhere to the recognized customs of the trade, were entitled to membership, and from the start the regulations provided that the Börsenverein should represent and support to the best of its power all sections of the book-trade. From the outset it was intended to be, and was also in fact, an active organization to promote the interests of the book-trade as a whole.

A Zentralstelle or headquarters was established, where all important trade questions could be discussed and, in particular, the problem that most troubled the publishers and booksellers of that period viz.: the lack of adequate copyright protection for literary property.

It is both interesting and encouraging to note that Leipzig gained its pre-eminence as a book center some fifty years before this time, partly because of the vigor with which it discountenanced unauthorized reprints. As far back as 1773 the sale or distribution of "pirated" editions at the Leipzig Fair was definitely forbidden. Publishers of new books, therefore, felt greater confidence in coming to Leipzig than to its then great competitor, Frankfurt. But the decision of the North German booksellers some few years before to refrain from attending the Frankfurt Fair had already turned the scale and altho today more books are published in Berlin than in Leipzig—Leipzig is still the center of the book-trade.

From its small beginnings with a membership of but 108 the Börsenverein made steady progress and today there are about 5000 members. Development followed development. Arrangements had soon to be made to enable publishers from other parts to carry stocks in Leipzig. Business between the "Fairs" became increasingly important and from this arose the need for Kommissionäre or agents to attend to such business, at first for the publishers, but subsequently for the booksellers as well. The custom of the trade to make all deliveries "free Leipzig" accentuated the importance of these Kommissionäre, and today all non-resident members (as well as a few resident firms) whether Publishers or Booksellers, employ one. The custom also had another effect. It resulted in Leipzig becoming a center for book production as well as book distribution.

It was soon found necessary to have a trade paper of their own, and in 1835 the Börsenblatt fur den Deutschen Buchhandel was founded and since 1867 has appeared daily. In addition to giving official announcements, it includes advertisements of all the new books and printed order forms, thus enabling both the Börsenverein and the publishers to keep in daily touch with the booksellers, and the booksellers to place orders with the minimum of effort and delay.

Another more recent move was the taking over of the publication of the Literarisches Zentralblatt, a most useful organ which combines some of the merits of the Times Literary Supplement with an official list of books of the fortnight (it appears twice monthly).

Then there is the official address book, which gives brief particulars of every firm connected with the German book-trade, over 13,000 in number. It is a perfect miracle of compression, and shows at a glance when a firm was founded, what kind of business it does, who are the partners, what Kommissionäre it employs and, if a publishing firm, whether it carries complete stocks at Leipzig, etc., etc.

There are also other interesting publications in book form, e.g. a very complete history of German bookselling, and a manual for the instruction of booksellers.

But to enumerate all the many activities that have grown out of the small beginnings of a hundred years ago—the technical schools, the technical library, the innumerable organizations of one kind and another connected with the trade, all housed in their own magnificent Buchhändlerhaus, would take me beyond the scope of this article. Those who want further information can get it from the official Satzung des Börsenvereins and from the excellent article by Rechtsanwalt Dr. A. Hess in the Jahrbuch Sachsen 1925 entitled, "Die Weltwirtschaftliche Bedeutung Leipzigs als Zentrale des Deutschen Buchhandels." Dr. Hess is the Geschäftsführer of the Börsenverein, and it is to his writings and to his colleague, Dr. Menz, I am indebted for many of the facts set forth above.

It would, however, be unfair to close this account of the Börsenverein without some reference to the obligation undertaken in 1913 to preserve one copy of each new book published in Germany just as the British Museum does over here, or the Congressional Library at Washington. In other words, the book-trade now does voluntarily in Germany what the State does in Great Britain and the United States. This collection known as Die Deutsche Bucherei, already contains over half a million volumes, and is in the best sense a national institution; it should not be confused with the central libraries of certain individual states like Bavaria which still retain the right to claim a further free copy of any books published within their borders.

In a subsequent section I hope to give some account of the present actual working of the Börsenverein as an organization. It has become a complicated mechanism and like, let us say a monotype machine, is a great deal easier to observe at work than to describe with lucidity to anyone who has not seen it functioning. But it represents the greatest achievement in book distribution and as such, deserves more careful study in the English speaking world than it has received from all but the few, such as the late William Heinemann, who pointed out as far back as thirty years ago how much there was yet to learn from Leipzig, even in the mere mechanics of book distribution. France and Holland have long since realized that fact, and have acted upon the knowledge acquired, and America is considering the possibility of founding a Bookseller's Clearing House. England on the other hand still prefers to rely almost exclusively upon individual effort, forgetful of the fact that the best can only be achieved by cooperation.

In Germany book-trade organization began by embracing the whole book-trade. Separate associations for separate interests came later. In England and America organization has proceeded on the reverse lines, and they are still waiting for an English equivalent of the Börsenverein der deutschen Buchhändler which shall represent all, and which will vigorously and continuously promote the well being of those engaged in the best of all occupations, the distribution of books. The time has surely come for a wider conception of our functions and obligations and a closer cooperation among all those connected with book production and distribution.

In these circumstances, would it not be worth while to study with some care the hundred years' record of our neighbors and consider what lessons it has to teach? Just because much of their organization is unsuited to our conditions, it does not follow that the time would be unprofitably spent.

Best Sellers in August

"THE Keeper of the Bees," a novel by Gene Stratton Porter, published in August, appears at the head of the "Best Seller" list for that month, compiled by Books of the Month. "Soundings," which has been out since last winter and since then a consistent best seller, still holds second place. "Glorious Apollo," a more recent book by E. Barrington, is third having progressed from eighth place on the previous month's list. Margaret Kennedy's novel, "The Constant Nymph," has gracefully retired from the top of the list, a position it has held indisputably for some months, and now comes fourth. "A Son of His Father," and "The Red Lamp," whose authors, Harold Bell Wright and Mary Roberts Rinehart, are not wholly unknown in previous "Best Seller" lists, follow "The Constant Nympth." "Red Ashes" by Margaret Pedler has about the same position as in the previous month. "The Ancient Highway" by James Oliver Curwood, coming next, is another August newcomer. "Drums" and "Arrowsmith" are still holding their places.

There is absolutely no change in the first half of the non-fiction list, from the titles reported as leading in July. At sixth place is a new book by William Beebe, "Jungle Days," which tells many interesting things about the ways of monkeys and other inhabitants of the African wilds. "Fruit of the Family Tree" by Albert E. Wiggam is next, with "Ariel," "The Life of Sir William Osler" and Emily Post's "Etiquette" following it successively.

New Chautauqua Course

THE Chautauqua reading course of this year includes, as usual, five books in different departments of knowledge plus a study handbook, all of which are supplied at the price of $8, together with a subscription to the Review of Reviews. The books selected are:

"Man's Life on Earth" by Dr. Samuel Christian Schmucker, published by Macmillan. This is the story of evolution by a very popular lecturer.

"The Life of the Ancient East" by James Baikie, also a Macmillan book. A volume on the romance of modern explorations by the author of the distinguished and important books on ancient Egypt and Assyria.

"The Life and Times of Cleopatra" by Arthur Weigall, published by Putnam. Mr. Weigall has been Inspector General of Antiquities of Egypt and has several books on the Putnam list.

"The Nature, Practice and History of Art" by H. Van Buren Magonigle of the American Institute of Architects and the National Academy of Design, published by Scribner.

"How to Live" by Eugene Lyman Fisk and Irving Fisher, the very well-known volume published by Funk & Wagnalls Company for the Life Extension Institute.

About 3300 Books

WHEN all fall lists are in, the titles copied off, alphabetized and printed, (and this means about five weeks of intensive work with extra staff), the Fall Announcement Index is ready, and the American book trade can get some general picture of the publishing activities of this busy period.

In totals of books published, 1925 is almost identical with 1924 in the number of pages and titles. Approximately 3300 titles have been indexed by both author and title entry and sometimes by series. This is half of the annual American book production from all sources.

With a list as comprehensive as this, looking back to the summer books and forward to the holidays, the bookseller has in his hand a great question answerer for the months of most puzzling questions. No buyer can remember all the books he has ordered and whom he has ordered them from. This list is an index to all publishers' titles. No buyer looks at all lines and titles or orders in more than a part of the new announcements. This list will quickly give a clue to any other book inquired for. No floor salesman can be a walking index to all the new books in stock or promised. This list will make him instantly informed on the publisher and price of half the year's output.

The editors have received much approval for the plan, first introduced in the Spring Announcement Number, of arranging the advertising pages alphabetically. The trade uses the Fall Announcement Number for three months, not for a single perusal, so that a quick method of turning to any publisher's list is of very practical value. For an accurate view of the direction of a publisher's promotion emphasis, for brief and carefully prepared descriptions of new books, for details as to price, illustrations, editing, author and so forth, the advertising pages supply prompt data.

Art in America

THE great art collection of Lord Leverhulme is to be auctioned at the Anderson Galleries in January according to cables from London, a collection of vast range including paintings of many periods, furniture, tapestries and orientalia. Several years ago experts valued them at $1,200,000, and they must be worth much more now at present values. Among other items it will be a remarkable collection of the famous caricatures, prints, and drawings of Gillray and Rowlandson. Such an event will crowd the Galleries with competitive bidders and will reflect great credit on Mitchell Kennerley and on his management of American auctions.

The selection of New York for this sale is the more significant, as it had been expected that a London sales room would have the collection, and announcements to that effect had already been made. It means that the market here today is so much more active than the market of England that Anderson's was justified in making an offer for the handling of the collection that could not be met in London. The ownership of masterpieces of art follows into the areas of great wealth and great fortunes are, in this generation, more rapidly on the increase in America than in any part of the world. The galleries of England are adorned with paintings and other art objects that flowed from the continent when England's surplus wealth surpassed that of the other countries and in the last half century the current has flowed across the Atlantic. This is as true of old and rare books as of paintings, and the New York auctions have supplied accurate indices of this movement.

Of even more importance to this country than this phenomenon of the accumulation of great art is the question of what will be the stimulating effect of such masterpieces as they scatter to the public galleries and private homes of the country. Will they stir the creative impulses of the new generations that have the opportunity for such contacts. Will we have more and better painting, architecture, applied art, printing, etc.? Will we have a more sensitive public that will not only see values in accepted masterpieces but find aesthetic enjoyment and appreciation for the product that may spring up among us. If this be the effect then a sale like the Lord Leverhulme auction, may be looked upon as a great boon indeed.

Fall Prospects

IF business signals have any value, it seems likely that the fall of 1925 will be one of the busiest seasons that the book-trade has ever looked forward to. There is in the atmosphere a sense of confidence and optimism in both the publishing and retail trade which shows that the private forecastings are giving confidence.

American business men have been trained in the last few years to a much greater use of statistical forecasts and experience has given both the business editors and the business men better knowledge of what figures and what facts have real value. For the present fall, the key figures show fair weather in most directions, for the producing and for the retailing industry as well. The slump in the agricultural regions has passed by, and the curtailing of stocks has brought all retail business to a basis for active turnover and quick orders.

To take one source of information, that of the Federal Reserve District report, the figures indicate that, in the district of Boston, the departments of books and stationery in the large stores reporting have had a 15 per cent increase of business over last July; in New York, a 20 per cent increase; in Dallas, 19 per cent; San Francisco, 15 per cent; and the average increase in the whole country, 13.7 per cent. These increases have come about in spite of the fact that there has been a decrease in the stock held by these stores, a 2 per cent decrease, taking the country as a whole.

A Delightful Sort of Map

PAUL M. PAINE, librarian of Syracuse, whose hobby is maps and map drawing, is the draftsman of a fascinating "Map of Adventures" which the Publishers' Weekly is to publish soon. As a decoration for library, bookstore, school or home it will do much to stimulate a new reading interest, and make both the characters of both history and literature more real. In order that it may be ready for children's Book Week the production in four colors is being rapidly pushed, and it will be ready for mailing by November 1st.

Bookstores will find it an effective aid to window and store displays. Every bit of drawing and lettering on the world area suggests good reading in famous fields. Young and old will find it equally stimulating.

Public libraries will find it most suitable for wall display or to use under glass-top tables. Mr. Paine's "Map of Good Stories," issued in small size and in black and white, has been in hundreds of libraries. The new map is printed on the best of map paper and, with care, will give year-round service. Public schools will use it as a teaching help in the courses in English or history or for the walls of the school library.

Broadcasters Discuss Copyright

AT the annual meeting of the National Association of Broadcasters, held in New York on September 16th, there was much discussion on copyright and on the attitude of the Association toward the present rights of composers and publishers, and also of the situation under the new bill.

While the present copyright law distinctly gives the owner of music control over the use in public performance, the broadcasters have largely fought against this on the ground that broadcasting was not a public performance, and the composers, as represented by the Society of Authors Composers and Publishers, have endeavored to get uniform recognition of the owners' rights. The conference expressed the desire to meet with the composers on equitable ground, and some basis of agreement as to the rate of payment seems likely to be reached.

Profitable Book-Merchandising

By Charles L. Pollard

VI

Knowing the Community

AT first thought such a maxim as "Know your community" would seem superfluous. But a glance at the dead stock —quantities of it—in the average bookstore is evidence enough that it is a maxim which needs to be studied, since in most instances left over books are due to lack of knowledge of the community. Surplus stock is often the visible evidence of this lack of information, but booksellers often lack, too, knowledge of the numerous opportunities thru which many books might be sold. There are items whose appeal is constant in all the land, the standard authors, the best sellers, the local variations in popularity of which the local bookseller can not but have marked, but the bookseller must also handle casual, single sales, representing the bookish idiosyncrasies of individuals.

Not infrequently such out of the ordinary sales point to a new field of profit, to a growing interest in a heretofore unnoticed class of books or authors. This interest may be momentary but lucrative. Generally such a demand will develop until the bookseller must meet it, tho it can and should be exploited. But such sales may also indicate a developing opportunity, a community interest latent or just catching fire and which the book dealer can fan to his own advantage.

By careful study and analysis of his community, the successful dealer will know what his potential customers are doing, where their attention is, what their chief interest is, their recreation—their life, and thru this knowledge he will be enabled to glean his just share of that territory's wealth.

The first survey should, naturally, seek to establish the atmosphere of the town as a whole; tho such a study is as a rule little needed since each community, in no indefinite terms, impresses its wants upon the bookseller. Dealers in an industrial town and in an agricultural district will quite unconsciously adapt themselves to the divergent needs of their different territories. There are civic enterprises that incorporate the whole population; community interests that are all-inclusive and make one of the many groups that must also be understood separately. Different in each town and ever-changing there, community pursuits demand close study and versatility of approach, and, being the dominant tone, are important almost beyond the possibility of over-emphasis.

Knowledge of his community enables the book dealer to do two things; buy exactly, or relatively so; and to dispose of his stock when bought. It is impossible either to buy successfully or sell successfully in general and at large; both must be in relation to group markets, whether large or small. With a knowledge of these group markets, the dealer can practically count the number of copies of a title he will need; and the same knowledge will make possible directed merchandising, if not direct selling.

A store in a manufacturing town, e.g., may sell as its chief line books that are decidedly light and cheap—popular copyrights and paper backs. But there are the groups of skilled labor, departmental heads, etc., who are a good ground for books pertaining to their trade or department, on processes, accounting, distribution and all that number of specialized activities so successfully cultivated by the correspondence schools. The ministers and some of the professional men will form a group that will buy the best fiction and non-fiction. There will be the social group with its demand for entertainment and for the new. A city in an agricultural district w.' be entirely different in its specialized groups, but some groups will be equivalent for bookselling purposes. These groups are the personalities of a trade territory; their needs and number must be ever in mind.

Knowledge of these groups—what groups there are and the number in each, who are among which store's clientele, etc.—is easily learned in all instances; in some it fairly thrusts itself upon the dealer. Knowing them, he need never have a quantity of dead stock on hand from too enthusiastic buying. Knowing them—a hundred ways to make contact with them, to exploit them, to secure their trade and to sell to them increasing quantities, will suggest themselves to the wide-awake book dealer. The other papers in this series have outlined various ways.

While knowledge of the community is not the only element in successful book-merchandising, because active and intelligent action based upon this knowledge is also very important, yet it is the absolute prerequisite of any bookselling success.

Further Discussion on the Order-Direct

SINCE the issue of September 12th printed the result of the information sent in by booksellers in reply to questions about the use of the order-direct, other letters have come to hand, and one of these carries such sound and impartial comment on the general problem of the order-direct business that it is printed herewith.

"I think, of course, that the publisher has his side of this problem but it can not be solved as has been suggested. There will always be occasions when the most efficient way of filling an order will be to have the publisher mail it direct. The remedy as I see it is for the bookseller to use greater care in sending in his special orders to try to combine them whenever possible with other copies of the same book or other titles from the same publisher. This means a more efficient supervision of this phase of his business upon the part of the individual bookseller.

"The remedy upon the part of the publisher also means a more careful analysis of this type of business. Whenever a publisher's record shows that some bookseller is imposing and asking the publisher to do too much of the work that should naturally fall upon himself, let him deal with that case individually. If it is evident that a bookseller is not carrying an adequate stock and is using the publisher to enable him to carry on what is a sort of mail-order business he can not expect to receive the same discounts and treatment that the other booksellers do.

Publishers know who these offenders are and they can be cured without making the whole trade suffer. The remedy certainly does not lie in shortening the already too small minimum discount. The taking and sending of orders for single books is a very important phase of the business of bookselling, and, if the economics of publishing do not permit a large profit to the publisher, neither do they do so to the bookseller. As was so aptly said in the Publisher's Weekly editorial, we must bear the burden together and cooperate in this small thing for the good of the trade as a whole."

An A. B. A. Page

News and Notes of the American Booksellers' Association

By Walter McKee, Pres., and Ellis W. Meyers, Exec. Sec'y

WE hope that every bookseller in the country, whether he is an A. B. A. member or not, has carefully gone over the plans for Children's Book Week. A complete outline has been sent out by the Publishers' Association in the Year Round Bookselling News. In addition to the News, the Association sent not only its own folder, but one from the General Federation of Women's Clubs as well.

This latter organization is working wholeheartedly to make the Week a success and will probably be a big factor in doing so. Women's clubs everywhere are instructed as to the best ways to do their share. Thousands of women are hearing of Children's Book Week, and so entire families are talking about it.

The bookseller has, in this program, an unusual opportunity to get in a great deal of good ground work, and to establish himself firmly in many places. By cooperating with the women's clubs of his town he can make many friends.

Every bookseller ought to order as much of the publicity material that the Publisher's Association furnishes as he can. It is all good and, if used in the right way, will produce results, not only in immediate children's book sales but in future sales.

Our work on the Telegraphic Delivery plan is progressing nicely. A story is being sent this week to all newspapers for publication October 1. The Associated Press is carrying it, and copies have been sent to all of our members so that it may be given to local papers in the various communities. The Western Union dodger is ready for distribution thru the Telegraph Company's offices, and we are daily receiving orders for our own dodgers which will soon be printed.

Those members of the Association who have not ordered the dodgers should do so at once. Non-members who are interested (and every bookseller ought to be) may receive information by writing this office.

There seems to be a great deal of interest in book shows, exhibits and fairs. We understand that a number of booksellers have participated in some of the local ones and would appreciate receiving some information about them. May we ask those of you who have exhibited this summer to let us know what was done and whether the results obtained were satisfactory?

It is really too bad that those persons who have already signified their willingness to use the Clearing House—do without this service until some of our slower members decide. We think of "Eventually—Why not now?" and wonder what is holding us up. This department is designed to save money for the bookseller and aid him in buying books from the New York publishers. The character and standing of those members who have endorsed the plan by sending in their signed agreements is such that there is no doubt that it is very much worth while.

Is it completely understood? All of your orders to New York publishers will be sent to the Clearing House (saving quite an amount of postage). They will be distributed at once to the publishers who will deliver the books (providing they have them) that day. Books from all of them will be packed in one enclosure and sent out at once or at any time you desire in accordance with any instructions you may want to give. The charge is $1.50 for each case (weighing up to 200 pounds) F. O. B. New York.

Compare the costs of receiving books by freight, express and parcel post. (A rate list was published in the Publishers' Weekly of July 18.) Add the packing charge to your freight cost and you will see that in most cases you save quite a bit.

And there will be very little, if any, time lost.

Don't hold up the others. Come in now.

In the Book Market

MARGARET DELAND has written Harpers a most enthusiastic letter about Anne Parrish's "The Perrenial Bachelor," which is to be used on a new jacket.

ROBERT NATHAN'S "Jonah" published by McBride in the spring, has just been published in England by Heinemann under the title, "Son of Amittai."

EVEN IN A YEAR unusually productive of biography, Lord Grey's "Twenty-Five Years" is spoken of everywhere as the outstanding biography of the year.

JAMES STEPHEN'S "Mary, Mary" is to be reissued by Macmillan under the title which it originally bore in England, "The Charwoman's Daughter."

THE AUTHOR of "The Mushroom Boy" one of the most praised of last year's juveniles, has written a sequel, "Singing Feathers."

THE FOURTH of the Rider's Guides, our American Baedeker, is to be published by Macmillan this fall. The new volume is "California."

IN "WIVES," Gamaliel Bradford makes historical studies of some half dozen women who depend on their husbands for their place in history, yet all but one seem to have been superior to the man who made them famous.

ONE OF THE "WIVES" is Theodosia Burr, wife of Aaron Burr. True to Mr. Bradford's contention, tho Theodosia has but a chapter, Aaron Burr is the subject of a two volume biography by Samuel Wandell & Meade Minnigerode, published by Putnam.

THIRTY YEARS AGO Appleton first published "The Red Badge of Courage." This year they are publishing a new memorial edition, with new biographical material, of interest to the collector, furnished by the Stephen Crane Memorial Association. Knopf is publishing the definitive edition of Stephen Crane in 12 vols.

EVERYONE is interested in modern French artists now. Frank Maurice is publishing biographies of "Paul Gauguin and Paul Cezanne"; Houghton has issued "The Tragic Life of Vincent Van Gogh" and Knopf is bringing out "Renoir: An Intimate Record" this fall.

"WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG" which is still second only to "Diet and Health" on the list of best sellers, is to be published in a special Christmas edition.

HOLT is reissuing "Democracy," by Henry Adams, a novel originally published anonymously while the brilliant author of the "Education of Henry Adams," was occupying a conspicuous political post.

BRET HARTE has always been one of our most romantic and mysterious literary figures. His letters have been assembled by his son, and are to be published this fall, throwing much light on his romantic career.

PERHAPS no one will appreciate Annie Russell Marble's book on the Nobel Prize winners so much as the Publishers' Weekly, which in its capacity of general information bureau has been answering questions about the winners in a very sketchy manner for a long time.

ELIZABETH MACKINSTRY, whose charming illustrations in the manner of Claud Lovat Fraser, have enhanced many a volume, is both author and illustrator of a volume of poems for children to be published by Doran this fall, it is called "Puck in Pasture."

THERE HAS BEEN a revival of interest in Stendhal this fall. Appleton has published the famous "Chartreuse of Parma" and Boni and Liveright are publishing a complete unabridged edition in about ten or twelve volumes. Stendhal, who wrote so well of romantic adventure, has been so difficult to obtain in English that he has had to submit to an audience of the few.

THE LONG-PROMISED LIFE of James Whitcomb Riley has been completed by Marcus Dicky and is to be published by Bobbs-Merrill this fall.

HENDRIK WILLEM VAN LOON'S "Tolerance" ought to be as popular as "The Story of Mankind." The widespread interest in the Scopes trial is only one of many reasons for predicting a large public for a book in popular style on freedom of thought.

KEITH PRESTON is known for his witty verse on bookish subjects, not only to the large body of readers of the Chicago Daily News but to all readers of the Publishers' Weekly, whose editors are continually quoting him. His new book, "Top o' the Column," is being published by Covici.

"MESA, CAÑON, AND PUEBLO" is based on Charles F. Lummis' previous much smaller book, "Some Strange Corners of Our Country." The illustrations are new.

CROWELL is bringing out a new edition of "A Treasury of Verse For Little Children." It is illustrated by Willy Pogany.

JUST AS NO FALL WARDROBE is complete without a pirate hat, so no fall list is complete without a pirate book. Crowell is publishing a new edition of the "Boys' Book of Pirates," tales from the time of Caesar to the Spanish Main.

THE POET BYRON is the hero of E. Barrington's "The Glorious Apollo," a novel with a background of fact. The poet's daughter, Allegra, is the heroine of another new novel, "St. Helios," by Anna Robeson Burr. This novel speculates on what would have become of Allegra if she had grown up.

A THIRD VOLUME of Anatole France illustrated by Frank C. Papé is being published by Dodd Mead this fall, "Penguin Island."

THE INTEREST in early American furniture and other household equipment has grown so rapidly of late that Mary Harrod Northend's "American Glass" is sure to be in demand.

MORE THAN TWENTY MILLION copies of Charles M. Sheldon's "In His Steps," translated into more than twenty languages, have been sold. The story of the writing and distribution of this book is only one of the interesting chapters of the biography of the author, which appears this fall.

AMONG ALL THE BACKGROUNDS that a novel may have, the office has been rather surprisingly ignored. Nathan Asch has written a novel called simply "The Office." His method of development is both unusual and dramatic.

IF COLOR is to be the notable feature in fall fiction this year, we must consider red as a leading candidate for first honors. Already we have "The Red Lamp," "Red Ashes," "The Red Cord," "Red Blossoms," "Red Diamond" and "Red Heels."

THE DATE for the publication of Carl Sandburg's "Abraham Lincoln; The Prairie Years" has been fixed for Lincoln's Birthday. Few books of biography have aroused wider anticipation.

THE NEW EDITION of Louis Untermeyer's anthologies (Harcourt) have been planned with most excellent typographical taste. The "Modern American Poetry" is now a book of 600 pages and "Modern British," 400. The biographical and critical notes are extremely valuable and should lead many readers to purchase the separate volumes of poet's works.

A DECIDEDLY INTERESTING piece of bookmaking is "What'll You Have?" by Oliver Herford and Karl Schmidt, Henry Holt & Co. It is a farce with temperance as the theme. The lining papers are reproductions of two old Currier and Ives prints, called "The Fruits of Temperance" and "The Fruits of Intemperance," which formerly hung in a hotel bar-room. The cover is a bright and clever picture by Herford.

"THE PRACTICAL BOOK OF HOME REPAIRS" is a book which ought to be popular in this season of fall housecleaning and refurbishing.

Year-Round Bookselling Program

Announcements from National Association of Book Publishers' Office

Books for Prizes

SILVER, lingerie, and linens have long been the hostess' choice for bridge party prizes. Why not suggest that books be selected as prizes this season? A new novel which is being widely talked about makes a very acceptable gift and will give far more pleasure to the prize-winner than a useless knick-knack.

Suggest books also as favors for parties. They will appeal to every guest. A hand-lettered card in your window, a line in your newspaper advertisement, short lists of books recommended for prizes and favors in circulars mailed to customers, will bring good results.

Christmas Poster

A NEW Christmas poster is being designed by Maude and Miska Petersham for the use of booksellers during the holiday season. It will be ready for distribution immediately after Children's Book Week.

Hundred Copy Sale

THE sale of books for business gifts at Christmas-time, successfully handled by a number of booksellers last year, will be even more profitable to the trade this holiday season, if more aggressive promotion is given the idea.

Business executives usually give their employees, associates and customers gifts to express the good wishes of the firm, and the dignity and appropriateness of books for these Christmas gifts cannot be questioned.

Orders are often placed months in advance for several hundred boxes of candy, or some other ephemeral form of greeting. Why not write or call upon employers, suggesting the selection of books this year? One hundred copy sales are worth special attention and the presentation of books from your bookstore to many of your townsmen will add to your prestige.

Dates to Remember

NATIONAL Picture Week, Oct. 12th to 22nd, under auspices of American Art Bureau, 166 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago. Books on the history of art, painting and allied subjects should be displayed by dealers during the Week. See article and list in Publishers' Weekly of August 29th.

Children's Book Week, Nov. 8th to 14th. See list of publicity material available to dealers, below.

American Education Week, Nov. 16th to 22nd, under auspices of United States Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C.

Thanksgiving, Nov. 26th. Books by local authors should be shown, as Thanksgiving is a homecoming time.

Universal Bible Sunday, Dec. 6th, under auspices of American Bible Society, Federal Council of Churches, and International Council of Religious Education. Special circulars on promotion of Bible and religious book sales free on request from Publishers' Association, 25 West 33rd St., New York City.

New Mailing Cards

ORDERS are being received daily for the cards designed by the National Association of Book Publishers for the bookseller's record of his customers' special interests. One side of the card includes space for name and address of customer and a list of seventeen subjects to be checked by the customer. The reverse side has space for dealer's address and for a general announcement of the bookstore's service. Sample cards will be sent to any bookseller on request. The price is $4.50 for 500, imprinted, $8.00 for 1000. Order from N. A. B. P., 25 W. 33rd St., New York City.

The card is designed as an enclosure with monthly statements, lists and letters, and may be tucked in books on display tables, and in gift packages. The returned cards serve as the basis for the building up of an active mailing list, invaluable in keeping the service of the bookstore before the public.

Book Week Check List

THE National Association of Book Publishers, 25 W. 33rd St., New York City, has prepared the following posters and circulars for the use of booksellers, librarians, teachers, and club chairmen in the promotion of Children's Book Week. Book dealers are urged to order copies of the circulars for distribution to "key people" in their communities and to m mbers of the local Book Week Committee.

Poster, designed by Jon Brubaker, "After all, there is nothing like a good book," pictured in Publishers' Weekly, September 12th.

Card miniatures of Brubaker poster, reverse blank for local printing of lists, program, etc., $1.00 per hundred.

Jessie Willcox Smith poster, "More Books in the Home."

Card miniatures of posters, reverse blank, $.75 per hundred.

Slides, poster design, with imprint, $.50 each.

Circular for teachers, "Book Week Proties." A general circular describing an ideal observance of Book Week.

Circular for teachers, "Book Week Projects," prepared by National Congress of Parents and Teachers, Committee on Children's reading.

Club program suggestions, prepared by General Federation of Women's Clubs, Division of Literature.

Book Film List, selected by National Board of Review of Motion pictures.

List of recent magazine articles on children's reading.

Travel Book Campaign

THE National Association of Book Publishers is working with the Save-to-Travel Association and the Trans-Atlantic Passenger Conference on the details of a big travel book campaign for the month of January. Bookstores will be assured of the cooperation of local ticket agencies and of several hundred banks which are members of the Save-to-Travel Association.

Sales Jump in August

FIRST reports of August sales tabulated by the Federal Reserve Banks are that August was 7% larger than August of last year. Larger sales were noted in all reserve districts except Minneapolis, and the largest increases were in New York, Chicago and St. Louis. Sales in mail order houses were 20% greater than last year.

Boston as a Distributing Center

THE state census of Massachusetts is being issued in bulletins which show that Massachusetts is now past the 4 million mark and that the Boston metropolitan area, covered in a district within ten miles of Boston, has reached a population of 1,657,000, tho Boston itself has a population of only 781,000. This large figure of the close metropolitan district is the reason for the large retail sales of that district as compared to cities of supposedly larger population. By the standards of city area commonly included in American municipalities, Boston is the fourth largest population center in the country and is higher than that in book distribution.

Collecting Trollope

DURING the past year or two, Anthony Trollope has either led or stood close up to the top of the list of English authors regarded as the most popular with English collectors of first editions of modern authors, according to the analysis published monthly in The Bookman's Journal. This has been a good deal of a surprise, for until recent years collectors have paid little attention to Trollope. The first book of this Victorian novelist appeared in 1847. His period of authorship lasted thirty-five years during which he wrote forty-seven novels, five books of short stories, four books of travel, three of essays, a life of Cicero, and edited an edition of Caesar, in all sixty-six titles and one hundred and thirty-four volumes. He had relations with sixteen different publishers. Most of his books were successful, and few were failures. The difficulty of the collector is in finding copies in good condition because most of them were read to death, or on the other hand, have become obscure because they were not read at all.

Business Address at Top of Labels

IN printing a proposed specimen label for order-direct business in the Publishers' Weekly of September 12th, the mistake was made of putting the business card of the bookshop in the lower edge of the mailing label rather than the upper edge or upper left-hand corner. The postal authorities are re-emphasizing the importance of putting business cards in the upper edge, as on envelopes, and business stationery should take cognizance of this regulation. Another excellent plan is to put under the business card the words "Return if not delivered, return postage guaranteed." This will save much time in getting things back which may have gone astray.

New York Bookselling Course Begins Oct. 7th

REGISTRATION for the fall series of lectures on bookselling may now be made at the registrar's office in the College of the City of New York at 23rd St. and Lexington Ave. The instruction fee for the course of 15 lectures is $10 and the registration fee $2. Classes will be on Wednesday evening beginning at 6:45 and ending at 8:23. As in a similar series in the spring, part of the time is to be given to the lecture and part of the time to the general discussion and demonstration. This course will not differ materially from the course of last spring, except by what the directors have gained from that experience.

The initiative for the course has come from the National Association of Book Publishers, which stands sponsor for the series, and the details are in charge of Marion Humble, executive secretary of that association, 25 West 33rd Street, from whom circulars can be had.

The general direction of the course will be handled by B. W. Huebsch and Frederic G. Melcher, with other instructors on special subjects. The first lecture on October 7th will be on "The Business and Profession of a Bookseller;" October 14th, "Historical Sketch of the Rise and Progress of Bookselling;" October 21st, "Organizing and Stocking a Bookshop;" October 28th, "Reference Books, Trade Periodicals, etc."

Obituary Notes

LEWIS FRANK TOOKER

LEWIS FRANK TOOKER, for forty years connected in an editorial capacity with the Century Magazine and at the time of his death an associate editor died September 17 at Greenwich, Conn. He was born in 1855 at Port Jefferson, L. I., of seafaring stock and spent much of his early life on ships owned by his family. He was graduated from Yale in 1877, and from 1882 to 1885 was Deputy Clerk of Suffolk County, New York. Later in the same year he became a member of the editorial staff of the Century. He was an author of short stories and verse. Among his more important books are, "The Call of the Sea" 1902; "Under Rocking Skies" 1905; "Life of Paul Jones" 1915; "The Middle Passage" 1920; and "The Joys and Tribulations of an Editor" 1924.

EDWARD M. LEAVINS

EDWARD M. LEAVINS, salesman for the American branch of William Collins Sons & Company, died suddenly on September 19th while on a business trip in Boston. For many years, he represented John C. Winston Company, and, on severing his relations with them, he formed business connections with the Stetcher Lithographic Company of Rochester to publish and sell under his own firm name their product of toy books and novelties. Five years ago, he engaged with the Collins agency to market its line of Bibles and standard classics. His many close friends in the trade will remember him with affection, while mourning his untimely death. He was about fifty-five years old.

JOHN HOWARD JEWETT

JOHN HOWARD JEWETT, 82 years old, veteran of the Civil War and author of "Bunny Stories" and many other children's stories popular a generation ago, died in Syracuse on September 18th. His "Bunny Stories" appeared in 1900 and were followed by a long series of juvenile books, including five volumes of "Christmas Stocking Stories," ten volumes of "Little Mother Stories," and four volumes of "Grandmother Goose Stories."

Change of Address

IN the index to publishers' catalogs in "The Trade List Annual" this year, the following should be noted as correct addresses:

Franklin & Charles, Lancaster, Pa.
W. J. Kleinlein Publishing Co., Columbus, O.
Knox Business Book Co., Oak Park, Ill.

Business Notes

AUSTIN, TEXAS.—The Personal Service Book Shop is now in a permanent location at 2011 Guadalupe Street, Twenty-First Street, corner of University Campus, and Lorraine Sherley has joined Nell Andrew in the enterprise and is to have charge of the modern book department. A rental library will also be established. Miss Andrew will continue to develop the plans for the rare book business, to include first editions, books on Texas, etc., and will continue the connection as purchasing agent for both the Wrenn and Garcia collections in the University of Texas.

COLUMBUS, O.—The trustees of the Ohio State University have decided that the University Co-operative Supply Company cannot hereafter operate on the campus. This was a company formed at the suggestion of some of the faculty, in order to reduce the prices on textbooks for students. The company was given the encouragement of free rent and special location. This caused criticism from business firms operating on a rental basis and serving the needs of the university, and protests and criticism of the ethics of the University in granting such subsidy have brought about the rescinding of the permission.

HONOLULU, H. I.—The Honolulu Paper Co. has bought over and will hereafter conduct the business of The Hawaiian News & Thrum's, the oldest book and stationery house in the island. The president will be G. Stanley McKenzie; manager, Stanley S. Taylor. The name of the Honolulu Paper Co. will be the one to continue, it is the largest wholesale paper house in the city.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—The Baptist Book Concern of Louisville, Ky., one of the largest outlets for religious books in the south, has been taken over by the Baptist Sunday School Board at Nashville, Tenn., in its chain of religious bookstores which are being reorganized by Dr. Van Ness and H. C. McGill. This store and the one in Dallas are the largest outlets of the chain and probably the largest of any outlets for religious books in the south. The Louisville concern is a supply headquarters of textbooks for the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, the largest theological seminary in the country, and the one in Dallas serves the Southwestern Theological Seminary.

NEW YORK CITY.—On the expiration of their lease at 19 West 44th Street, Henry Holt & Co., are to move to the big new building at 1 Park Avenue which is now approaching completion. This location is a stone's throw from Harper's new building on 33rd Street and a few blocks from the Fourth Avenue publishing center. The owners of the building report that they are in negotiations for space with other publishing houses.

TIENTSIN, CHINA.—Merwin Magill who is managing the book business of La Librairie Français, desires current catalogs of American publishers. The business is of books both in French and English.

Personal Note

EARL F. LEDERER, sales manager of Brentano's, because of a nervous breakdown, is taking several months' rest in Sharon, Mass. He will return to Brentano's, January 1.

The Weekly Record of New Publications

THIS list aims to be a complete and accurate record of American book publications. Pamphlets will be included only if of special value. Publishers should send copies of all books promptly for annotation and entry, and the receipt of advance copies insures record simultaneous with publication. The annotations are descriptive, not critical; intended to place not to judge the books. Pamphlet material and books of lesser trade interest are listed in smaller type.

The entry is transcribed from title page when the book is sent for record. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request. When not specified the binding is cloth.

Imprint date [or best available date, preferably copyright date, in bracket] is always stated, except when imprint date and copyright date agree and are of the current year, in which case only "c" is used. No ascertainable date is designated thus; [n. d.].

Sizes are indicated as follows: F (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q (4to: under 30 cm.); O (8vo: 25 cm.): D (12mo: 20 cm.): S (16mo: 17½ cm.); T (24mo: 15 cm.); sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow.

Old and Rare Books

Edited by Frederick M. Hopkins

A FIRST issue of the first edition of Goldsmith's "Vicar of Wakefield," 2 vols., 1766, original calf, brought $850 at Sotheby's at the end of the season just closed.

VOL. VI of "Print Prices Current" just issued, is a complete and accurate record of rare engravings and etchings sold at auction in London, Glasgow and Edinburgh, between October 1903 and August, 1924. The usefulness and reliability of this reference work has been thoroly established in the few years of its existence. It has already become indispensable to the wideawake print dealer and collector.

IN the analysis of demands for first editions of modern English authors in Great Britain, as indicated by the want advertisements printed in English trade papers for the four weeks ending July 18, as reported in The Bookman's Journal, for August, the following ten authors stand at the head of the list in the order named: Joseph Conrad, George Moore, Sir. J. M. Barrie, John Galsworthy, Norman Douglas, W. H. Hudson, James Stephens, Lewis Carroll, George Gissing, and A. A. Milne.

"THE Life and Letters of John Burroughs," by Clara Barrus, in two large octavo volumes, should interest every Burroughs collector. It contains a great many letters and other material that appears here for the first time. Its publishers say that the general result is a "splendid and realistic portrait that makes the great naturalist and philosopher live again; a book that should take its place beside Boswell's "Johnson," for, like its great prototype, it gives the reader the feeling of having lived daily, even hourly, with a rich and vital personality."

THE August number of the New York Public Library Bulletin contains the first part of bibliography, or reference list of the "Chemistry and Manufacture of Writing and Printing Inks," compiled by William B. Gamble, with an introduction by H. M. Lydenberg, chief reference librarian. This instalment contains 244 items in many languages and only reaches the letter H (Hendricksen). It will probably require two more parts to complete the list. No one but the specialist would ever dream that so much had been written about ink, and certainly specialist and outsider, connoisseur and casual inquirer, will appreciate the labor, research and patience required to complete this bibliography.

RARE Americana consisting of pamphlets, books, broadsides and autographs, will be sold under the management of Charles F. Heartman at Metuchen, N. J., October 2. This is Mr. Hartman's first sale of the new season. These selections from various consignments comprise books on the Revolutionary War, the adoption of the Federal Constitution, early finance, the early West, the North American Indians, Vermont, Washington, and an unusual collection of songs by Stephen Foster. As usual, Mr. Heartman is specializing on Americana and his catalogs are always worthy of the attention of discriminating collectors.

THE first sale of the new season at the auction rooms of Stan. V. Henkels & Son in Philadelphia will take place October 6. On this occasion selections from the collections of John L. Manning, war governor of South Carolina, and General James Chesnut, Jr., aide to Jefferson Davis, consisting of rare American history, Confederate newspapers, imprints and broadsides, early Quaker tracts, Lincolniana, Elzivir imprints, and other early printed books in special bindings, together with a collection of rare Confederate and United States stamps on the original covers. One of the rarest lots is Jefferson Davis's retaliatory address, in answer to Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation.

AN announcement has just been made by the authorities of the Metropolitan Museum of Art of the gift of a collection of 400 volumes on arms and armor, including textbooks of sixteenth century fencing masters and ancient tournament books with colored plates, made by William H. Riggs while forming his armor collection. This collection supplements the great Riggs armor collection, giving the Museum possession of rare books on armor ranking with that of the National Arts Library in London. There is a long list of expensive books of the most extreme rarity, and all are difficult to obtain in fine condition. Some of the early fencing books are illustrated with early woodcuts and copperplate engravings, rarities seldom found in the choice condition to be found in this collection.

FROM the way in which the photostat service in the New York Public Library has grown since its installation twelve years ago, it will not be long before many of the present-day methods of reference work will be changed in the research libraries. When first installed, this service was merely an incidental feature of the library's activities. In 1913, the first year when orders were handled thru the office of the director of the library, one of the assistants did all his photographing in a few hours daily. Today more orders are handled in a month than in the entire first year, and whereas then one small machine sufficed for the demand, two more considerably larger ones have been added to supplement it. All kinds of orders come in for this department of the library's service, and it appears that only the border of its usefulness has been touched.

MRS. JOSEPH CONRAD, widow of the author whose last work—an unfinished novel called "Suspense"—has just been published, in an interview just published in London and cabled to this country, painted a tragic picture of the writer's losing fight with death to complete what he hoped to make his masterpiece. "For several weeks before his death," said Mrs. Conrad, "he managed with great labor to write himself and adopted the method of reading out loud as he wrote, so that it could be typewritten at the same time. That of course was very tiring, but he persevered until the last for love of his art. It is doubly poignant that he could not finish the book, because he had taken more trouble to obtain material for it than he had for any other. We went to Corsica in 1921 to see Napoleon's house, and my husband went thru many contemporary books and documents. Both for humanitarian and national reasons he didn't like Napoleon as a man, but he was vastly interested in him. He vaguely mentioned three or four possible endings for his book, but nothing definite had been settled at the time of his death."

The Weekly Book Exchange

Books Wanted and Books For Sale

Under these headings subscribers are charged 15c a line (no charge for address); non-subscribers 20c a line, address extra. Bills for this service will be rendered monthly.

Write your wants plainly, on one side of the sheet only. Illegible "wants" are ignored. To insure prompt replies each title should begin on a separate line. Grouped titles in a solid paragraph, excepting those by one author, not allowed. The WEEKLY is not responsible for errors. Parties with whom there is no account must pay in advance.

Objectionable books are excluded as far as they are noted.

In answering, please state edition, condition and price, including postage or express charges. The appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the WEEKLY does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it endeavors to safeguard its columns by withholding the privileges of advertising should occasion arise, booksellers should take usual precautions in extending credit.

Life of Bryan

"The Great Commoner"

By Genevieve Herrick and John Herrick

400 Pages—40 Pages of Illustrations
Clear Type—Good Paper—Cloth Binding

William Jennings Bryan was one of the great outstanding figures in American history. His matchless silver tongued oratory swayed men and women by the millions. His character was stainless—his faith unbreakable. His untimely death was mourned by an entire nation.

His Entire Career

Bryan's greatest political speeches and most noteworthy deeds are here faithfully recorded. How he rose to fame; shaped the destinies and molded the policies of the Democratic Party for 30 years; how his political enemies admired his honesty, sincerity, courage and strength of character; his courtship and marriage; his congressional career; his uncompromising attitude toward evil; his great battles for the right; his fight against predatory interests; his fight for prohibition and woman suffrage; his religious faith; his career as Secretary of State. All are here set down with remarkable faithfulness to detail.

"THE CROSS OF GOLD" "You shall not press down upon the brow of labor this crown of thorns; you shall not crucify mankind upon this cross of gold." Read this remarkable speech that stampeded a great convention and thrilled the entire nation! One of the most intense and dramatic moments in American political history. You want to read it—alone worth the price of the book.

"THE PRINCE OF PEACE"

Again the Silver Tongue speaks with matchless eloquence presenting his deep seated religious convictions. One of the greatest orations ever delivered.

EVOLUTION Read his defense of the Bible in the famous Scopes Case and his posthumous speech. This wonderful book should have a permanent place in your library regardless of political or religious belief. It will be an inspiration for young and old for generations.

THE LANGUAGE OF ADVERTISING

By John B. Opdycke
Author of "Business Letter Practice"

This new work constitutes a comprehensive treatment of both the science and the art of advertising in its present-day manifestations. It is calculated for use in the publicity office, in the college classroom, and in the copy-writing laboratory. It is never too technical, however, to be of absorbing interest to the general reader. It may be read for entertainment and inspiration quite as much as for information and instruction. It differs from other advertising books on the market chiefly in that it establishes close-up and practicable relationships between advertising and literature, a thesis that no other book on the subject has attempted. Numerous challenging exercises, a detailed index, a readable style, a profusion of well-appointed illustrations, and—An introduction by Mr. Percy S. Straus, Vice-President of R. H. Macy and Company, Inc., one of the largest and best-known mercantile establishments in America, all go to make this new publication unique and distinguished in its voluminous field.

512 pp., 153 illus., cloth, gilt, $3.50 postpaid.
